QUEEN'S TO-MORROW.

HE HAD POWER OF A DICTATOR

A MAN With a Load of Power retired from office this month—Admiral Sir Colin Keppel, Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Commons.

For twenty years he has wielded power such as few dictators have.

He was the only man in Britain to have a private prison—the Clock Tower of the Houses of Parliament.

He was the only man who could call on the services of the Army, Navy and Air Force to assist him in carrying out his duties.

He was the only man who could break down doors and invade any building—and imprison any one who resisted.

Yet there is no more courtly and gentle man alive than Sir Colin. If he had a load of power, he had a bigger load of duties.

He was the "policeman" of the House of Commons, responsible for maintaining order among M.P.s and "strangers" alike. The Sergeant-at-Arms was in two crises. In neither did his courtesy and calm desert him.

Snatched The Mace

The Mace was when an unruly Socialist M.P. snatched the Mace.

Before most people had recovered their breath, Sir Colin was striding up the floor of the House to the rescue of the emblem of the King's authority.

Twisting it from the M.P.'s grasp, he calmly restored it to its place on the table.

The other crisis was when turbulent John McGovern had to be thrown bodily from the Chamber.

BRIDGE
FORTUNES£250,000 YEARLY
FROM CARDS

London, Aug. 25.

THE champion bridge player of the world is in London. He is the man who has defeated Ely Culbertson and has swept America with his new "4 aces system."

Thirty-four-years-old Michael Gottlieb is a wealthy New York estate agent.

Six years ago he first became interested in serious bridge and perfected a new system, which, with the help of his three partners—David Burnstine, Oswald Jacoby, and Howard Schenken—he has made almost perfect.

Gottlieb was once Culbertson's partner, but now they are rivals.

"I hope, with the help of my partners, to make £250,000 next year," he told interviewers when he arrived in London. "I have come over to England to try and make bridge the great game it is in the States."

"It is no exaggeration to say that a first-class player who devotes his life to the game can make £100,000 a year."

"There are many first-class players in your country, but as yet bridge is not the attraction it is in my own land."

"I am preparing the ground to make bridge a national pastime. In the States there are 4,000 qualified teachers of the game who have to pass examinations and obtain diplomas before they are qualified to teach."

"My ultimate object is to arrange a competition which will run on the lines of the Davis Cup at Wimbledon."

We have the cup all ready; it only remains to wake up other countries to the importance of the game."

Bombers Will

ShippingSPECIAL DEFENCE
UNIT SOON

The vital problem of protecting Great Britain's coastal shipping in time of war is to be tackled by the creation of a special defence unit, consisting of nearly 200 fast aeroplanes.

The Air Ministry has ordered work on the construction of these machines to start at once. They are to be—

Low-winged monoplanes, with retractable undercarriage to increase speed;

Two engines, which can be used alternatively;

Speed of nearly 190 m.p.h.;

Crew of four, and a bomber's compartment and a machine-gun turret.

Hitherto coastal reconnaissance has been entrusted to five flying-boat squadrons—twenty machines—stationed at Pembroke, Mount Batten, Gosport, Calshot and Felixstowe.

Long Caused Anxiety

But it has now been established that these land machines can be built more quickly and can be more economically maintained than flying-boats.

The task of protecting coastal shipping in time of war has long caused anxiety to the Air Ministry. It has to be remembered that not only has incoming shipping to be protected, but also outgoing vessels, carrying exports.

These ships are subject to the gravest menace in the narrow approach waters around the coast, where they are vulnerable to attack by swift enemy aircraft.

One-third of Great Britain's seaborne traffic enters and leaves the Port of London, so that it is urgently necessary that there should be adequate protection.

THE MIDGET KILLER

HENRY ("MIDGET")

FERNEKES has "escaped" from a prison in Joliet, Illinois. Police and "G-men" are on his trail. The Middle West of America is suffering from an attack of "Dillingeritis."

For Midget Fernekes, 5ft. 2ins. in height, killer, bank robber and notorious bad man, is more ruthless than the dead Dillinger, more scientific in his killings, more modern in his weapons.

Fernekes was serving the ninth year of a ten-year term for murder and bank robbery. He obtained civilian clothes from outside the prison and escaped from his cell by posing as a visitor who had come the wrong way.

He walked unmolested and unchallenged through the prison gates. In fact, one uniformed guard at the gate touched his cap politely and called a cab, in which the midget drove to freedom.

Midget Fernekes made a careful study of criminology before he embarked on his sensational career.

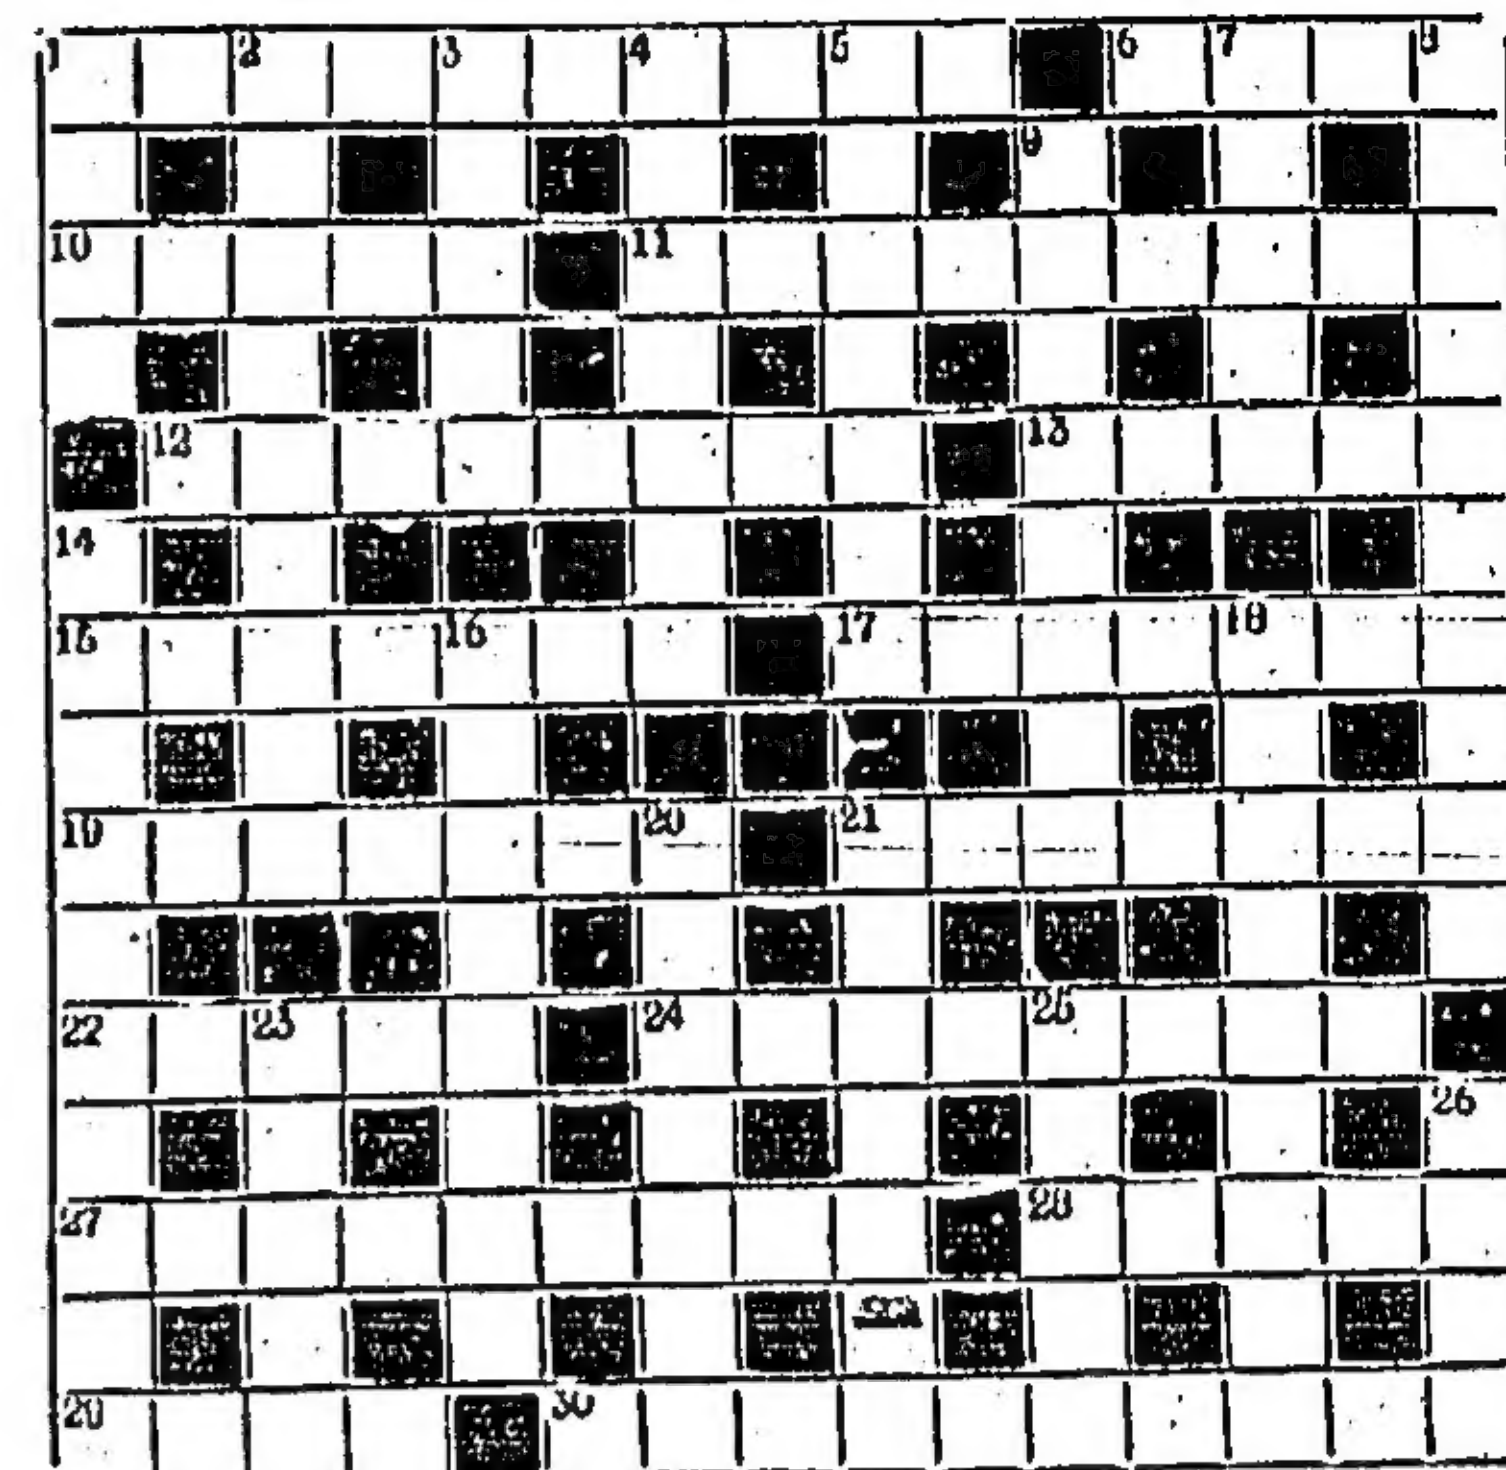

He learned chemistry, fingerprinting and safecracking as a student of a legitimate profession.

vessels could leave or enter at night-time, and thus be virtually invisible to enemy machines.

But with the wide cruising range of modern aeroplanes, these ships could be intercepted in daylight, and destroyed in narrow waters, where they would be unable to scatter.

It is understood that the Air Ministry and its advisers are planning to have this new unit ready for any emergency within a comparatively short time, and that the number of this type of machines will be increased as necessity arises.

GOVERNMENTS FIGHT

4,000,000
Pawns In War
Of StatesPEOPLE STARVE AS GOVERNMENTS
WRANGLE

Washington, Aug. 28.
The nation's unemployed—4,000,000 needy men, women and children who cannot earn a living—are pawns in the contest between the Government and states over who shall pay for their keep.

There is no hope for them in the New Deal's U.S.$4,000,000,000 work-relief programme. States, counties and municipalities have, for the most part, refused to feed and clothe them.

The showdown will come late this autumn, after almost a year of bickering. They will continue meantime to live on Federal doles.

Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins demanded last winter that political subdivisions care for their needy who could not qualify for the employment drive, because of mental or physical incapacity.

Local governments protested. They asserted their treasuries were empty, and recalled President Roosevelt's promise that "no one shall starve." The situation in Ohio is an example.

The state, with 330,000 unemployed out of a total relief fund of some 1,130,000 persons, has been receiving $9,000,000 a month from the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

The needy who cannot work still will be destitute when the job programme gets under way. Hopkins has insisted he will cut off direct relief grants. Governor Martin L. Davey refuses to offer any means of providing state funds.

The Ohio legislature passed a bill giving county commissioners the power to call a special election on issuing relief bonds against anticipated revenue from the one per cent. utility excise tax. But counties generally are opposed to the plan.

Hopkins sought to force the issue when he threatened to cut the state's U.S.$9,000,000 relief allocation by 50 or 60 per cent. during August. He changed his position, however, and made the full amount tentatively available.

Hopkins holds the whip hand. Backed by President Roosevelt, he can supply only enough of the U.S.$4,000,000,000 fund to finance the number of jobs he admits each state. By cutting off direct relief, political subdivisions must care for their lame and blind or allow them to go hungry.

Hopkins said he will not hesitate to take that drastic move. He explained states and their subdivisions cared for their needy unable to work before the depression through local relief funds, community chests and the like.

The problem will not come near solution until after November 1, when the government plans to end the date. Indications are, however, that grants must be made at least until January 1 because of delay in transferring employable needy from relief rolls to federal pay rolls.—United Press.

NEW DREYFUS
REVELATIONSnake Mystery On
Devil's Island

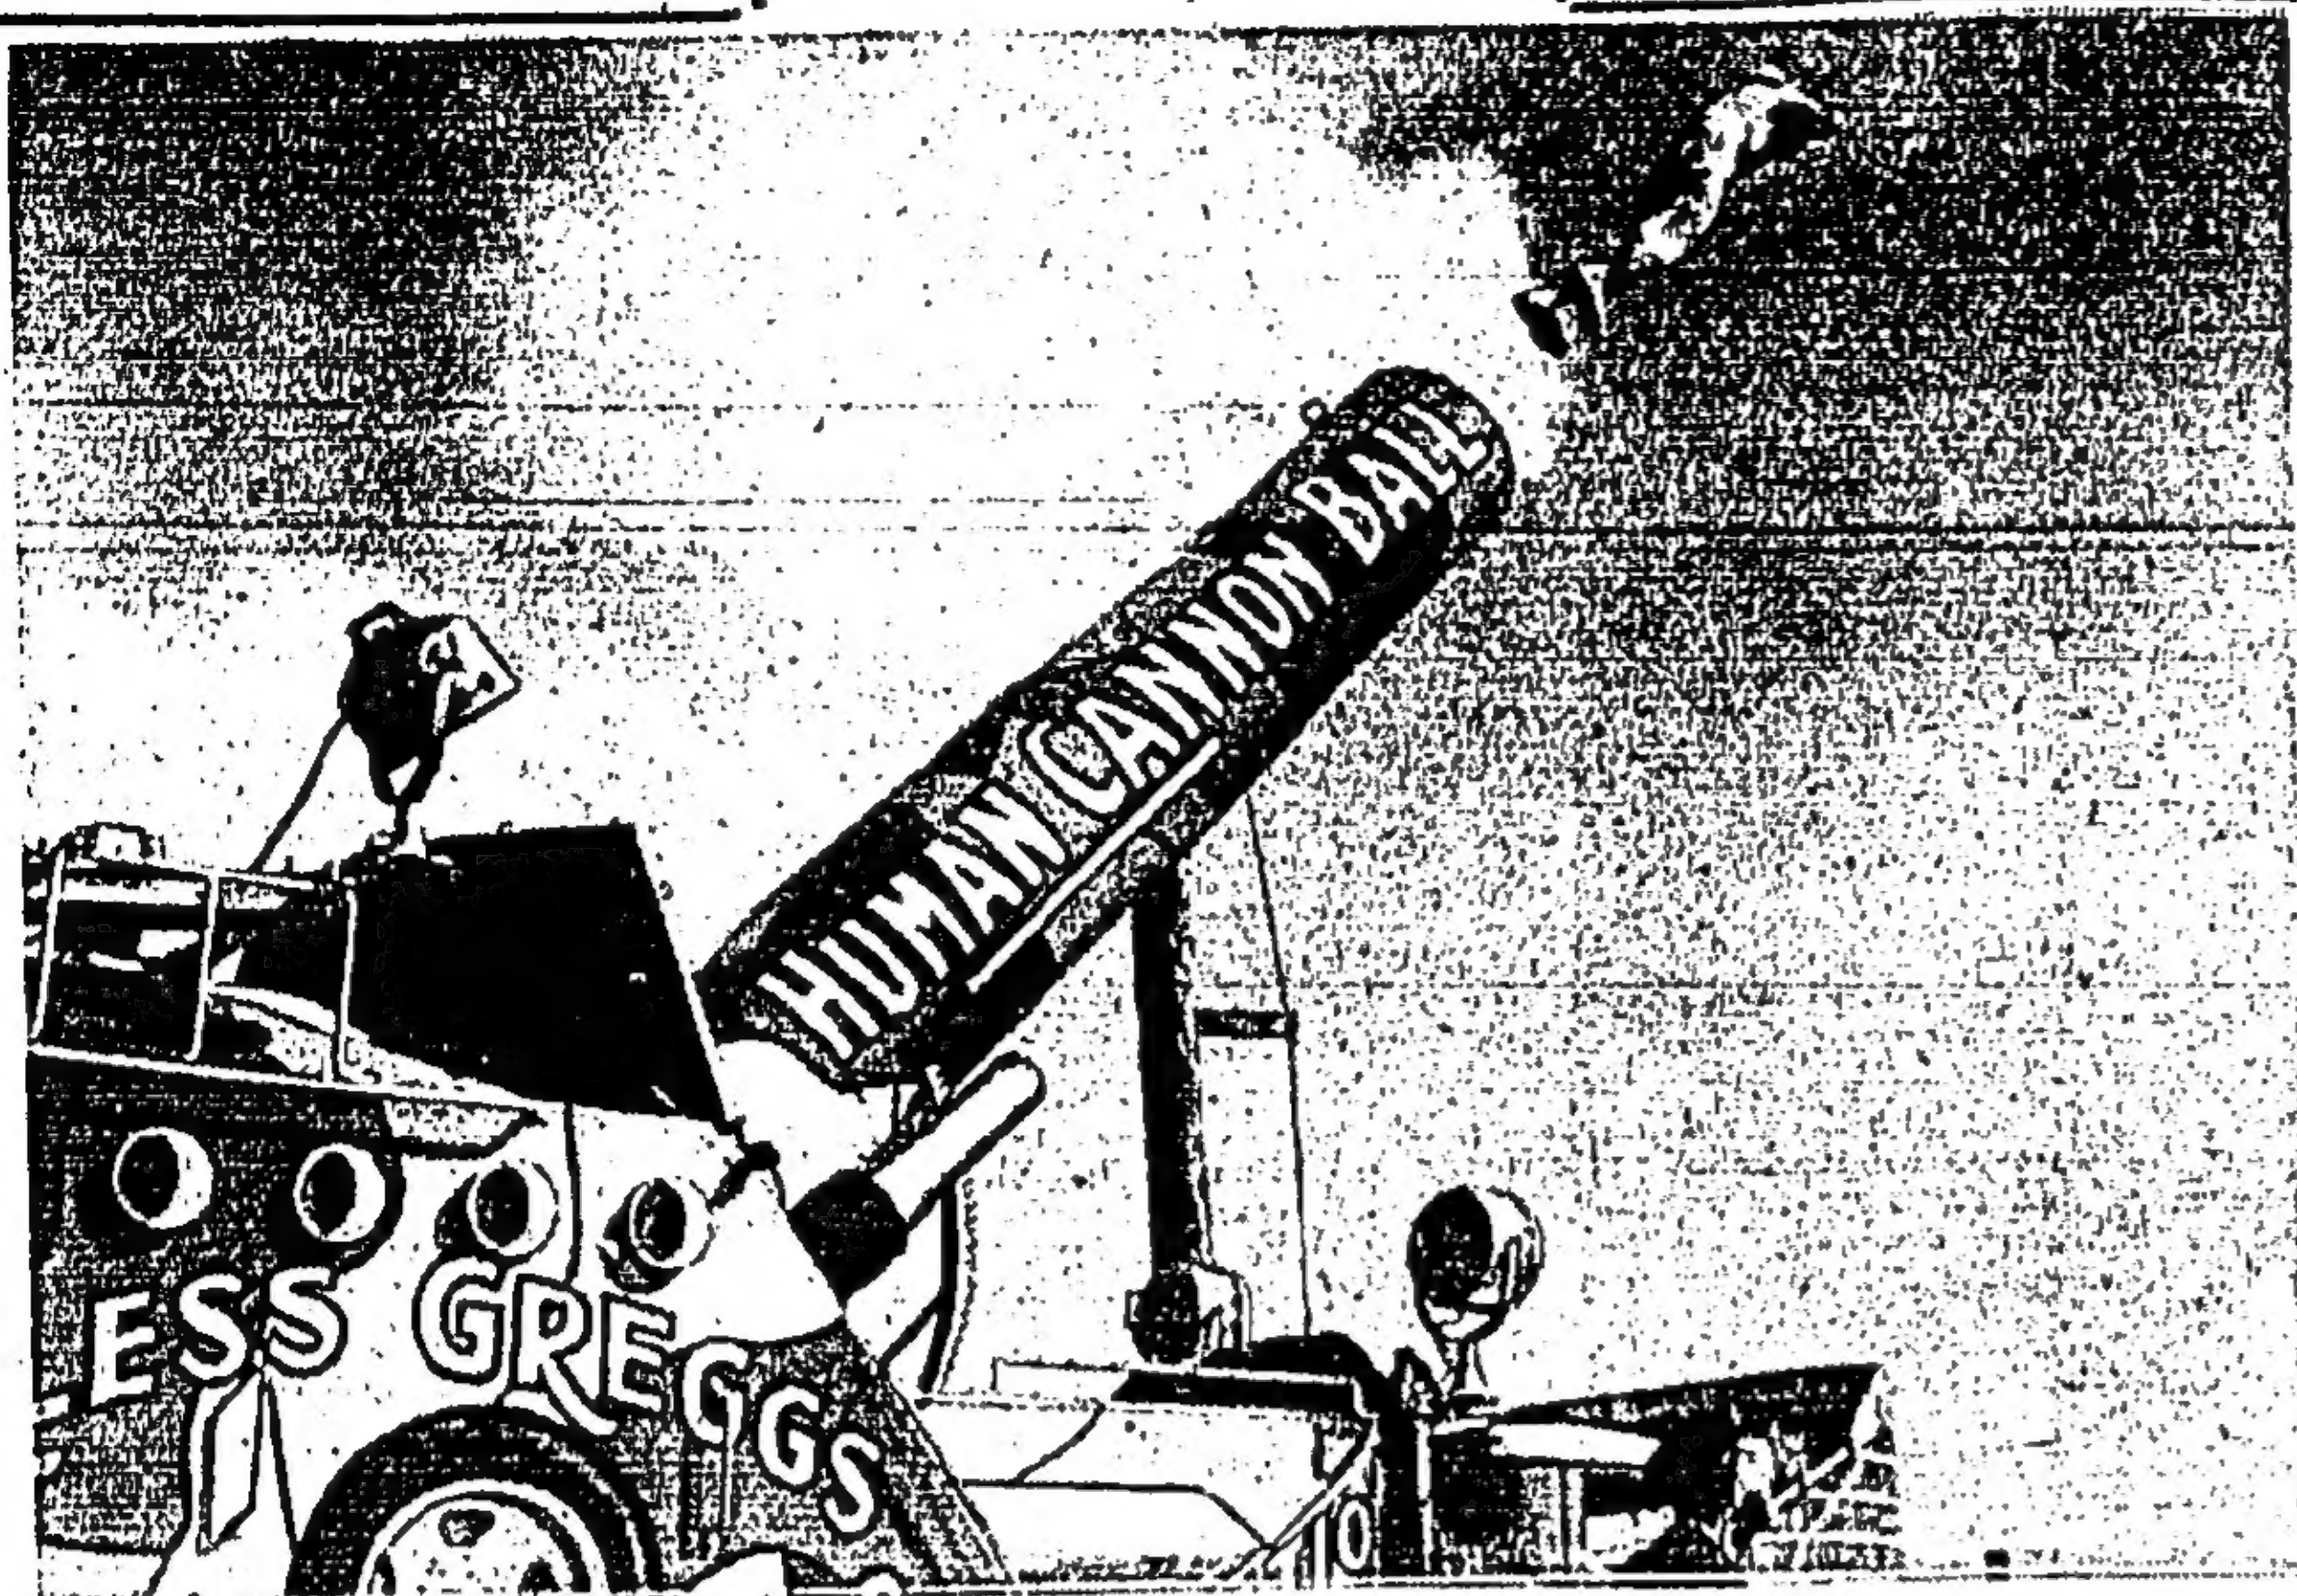

Paris, Aug. 25.
"Dreyfus was lodged in a special cell built for him outside the barracks," he writes. "One night I heard desperate shrieks coming from the prisoner."

"I thought he had gone mad, so I called out the guard. We lined up with bayonets. The sergeant, brandishing a revolver, opened the door."

20-Foot Boa Constrictor

"There was Dreyfus on top of a cup-board. Below him was a boa constrictor with its head angrily swaying to and fro. One of the men, whipping out his bayonet, decapitated the monster, which measured over 20 ft. Searching inquiries were made, but none ever discovered how the snake got into the cell."

One can imagine what would have been the effect in France of the news of the death of Dreyfus in such a manner, only a few months after a trial and conviction which had convulsed the whole country. Col. Dreyfus, victim of an atrocious conspiracy to find him guilty of spying, died on July 12 last.

Chelsea Parson
Wears A SkirtAND HER SERMONS
ARE FUNNY

London, Aug. 30.
THE Rev. Miss Doreen Hopewell, the new woman minister of a Chelsea (London) Congregational Church, believes in:

Comfort tip-up, plush seats in church;
Free-and-easy dress for her congregation, and
Funny stories in her sermons.

Miss Hopewell has had to fight hard to enter the ministry. The greatest opposition to the idea of a woman preacher came from the women themselves, she said:

"Women, especially the middle-aged want a man preacher," she added.

"One was especially indignant, and said that she couldn't bear the thought of being buried by someone in skirts."

But now that Miss Hopewell has been ordained and a church put wholly in her charge, she hopes to make some radical changes.

"A church should be a cheerful place," she said.
"I see no reason why women should come to church in hats and starched Sunday-best, when they would feel more comfortable in something a little less orthodox."

Cinema And Church

"And, if we could afford it, I should insist on soft, plush, tip-up seats. Cinemas have them, so why shouldn't the Church?"

"Sermons should be entertaining. If a preacher can illustrate a thought with a humorous story, not only does it put the congregation in a good mood, but it holds their attention."

SPORT—AND
BIG FEETWomen Can Blame
Tennis: Hockey

London, Aug. 28.

British women's feet are getting bigger.

Mr. John Mason, dean of the National School of Chiropody, which maintains the largest foot hospital in the world, said this week:

"Our women's feet have never been particularly small, but a great many girls have larger feet than their mothers because they play hockey and tennis and do a great deal of walking and hiking."

Mr. Mason does not agree that women should wear low heels. A medium heel gives the necessary arch support.

GALAPAGOS QUEEN

Empress
Of Eden Is Found AgainDISCOVERED ON LONELY ISLE
IN PACIFIC

The alluring blonde Baroness Bosquet von Wagner Werhorn, the missing "Empress of the Galapagos Islands," has been found in a new Eden.

She has been discovered hiding in a lonely island off the coast of Ecuador.

With her is a man believed to be Robert Phillipson, who accompanied the Baroness on her dramatic flight from the Galapagos Islands after sailors had stumbled across the bodies of two men, the manner of whose death has aroused suspicion.

Astounding Story

In the meantime the Baroness is being held on her latest Eden pending advice from the Ecuador police.

She is said to have given astonishing details of her bizarre reign to representatives who questioned her.

Recently a dramatic account of the amazing adventures of the Baroness on her island domain were published.

The Baroness, it is learned, was confronted on her second Eden by statements made by Captain Borthen, skipper of a fishing vessel whose crew found the two men's bodies.

"Things happened there on Charles Island, under the rule of the Baroness," Borthen said at the time, "that were too horrible to imagine. I am not telling any secret when I say that life there in that small colony was a hell of horror."

Charges Pooh-poohed

The Baroness pooh-poohed Captain Borthen's insinuations, and said she would tell the true story of her life on the island later.

She landed on Charles Island in the Galapagos group in 1932 with two lovers, Robert Phillipson and Alfred Lorenz.

One of the reasons for choosing such a secluded abode were the unconventional loves of the trio, but they were also searching for pirate gold.

The Baroness and her three lovers wore scanty clothing and jealously guarded their territory from intrusion.

Trouble developed in the colony when Lorenz and Phillipson began to quarrel over which one should enjoy the Baroness's affections.

She showed plainly that she preferred the manlier attentions of Phillipson, and some bloody battles took place between the two men.

Captain Borthen says the Baroness forced the men to whip each other for her entertainment.

Some months ago a Dane named Nugeraud landed on Charles Island. What happened afterwards is a mystery.

The bodies of Lorenz and Nugeraud were found on the beach of a neighbouring island, mummified by the sun.

GRETNA GREEN
ROMANCESGovernment Plans
To End Them

London, Aug. 30.
THE romantic illusions which surround the Gretna Green marriage are being dispelled at last.

Sir Godfrey Collins, Secretary of State for Scotland, is now considering plans, which will put an end to them.

For years romantically-minded couples have gone to Gretna, just over the Scottish border, to pledge their troth beside the blacksmith's anvil.

Sir Godfrey Collins is to hold an early meeting with the heads of the Scottish churches to see what can be done about it.

He has received during the last few weeks several complaints about the unsatisfactory state of the present law. These have come from church elders, ministers, and prominent citizens and couples who have "married" at Gretna Green.

A Scottish M.P. is urging Sir Godfrey Collins to make radical changes in the law which governs the issuing of these marriage licences.

At the same time he wants an enactment passed to ensure that such marriages as have already taken place at Gretna are legally binding.

At present many of the couples are not quite sure whether they are officially married or not.

The Scottish church leaders who have been investigating the matter have come to the conclusion that Gretna marriages are very different now from what they used to be.

In the old days there was usually a touch of romance about them.

To-day, in many cases—as the subsequent actions in the courts show—the man has no intention of marrying and the girl only realises that when it is too late.

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEMARKET UPWARD
YESTERDAY

New York, Sept. 11.
The following reports on the New York Stock Market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz:

The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market—Stocks to-day were upward and the most active session since July 27, 1934 was witnessed. Trading in Radio Corporation consisted of blocks of 1,000 to 25,000 shares. Motor issues were the most active group, with dozens of shares reaching new high levels for 1935. Railroad securities were in heavy demand, driving the average to the highest mark since December, 1934. Last profit-taking, however, paved advances. Bonds were firm, whilst stocks on the Carb Exchange were higher.

Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz New York office cables:

Stocks: There was a renewed advance to-day on fresh buying. The Republic Steel Corporation is offering $21,000,000 of convertible general mortgage bonds, 4½ per cent. 1950 at par.

Cotton: Rains are delaying the movement of the crop, which is expected to increase with coincident hedge selling later. Farmers are expected to market freely as nothing exceeding the 2 cent bonus is available.

Wheat: The market was discouraged by long liquidation. The fundamental strength of the market remains unchanged.

Corn: The near position is tight, whilst distant months are dependent upon the progress of the crop.

Rubber: The market was steady, but idle.

going to bother you with being too long.

Mrs. Post asks me to take good care of Wiley. I said, "Of course, you mean in the air. After we get on the ground he is able to look after himself."

There was an extra single seat ahead of the double seat. Wiley took it out, and there is left a world of space, as there is this comfortable double seat. It could be possible to be a six-passenger job.

Wiley has got a rubber boat and a canoe paddle, some life vests, or protectors.

Oh, yes, and his gun case. I don't know what kind it is. I don't hunt or shoot. It's a long-looking thing. I expect there is a Springfield rifle in there.

Oh, yes, and his fishing rod and eighty reels.

Oh, just. And two or three coils of rope (and they are not mine). They are to tie the ship up and pull it up to the banks.

That will be my job, to get out first and tie the rope and then vault ashore and haul it in.

What, no camera? No, that's what we are going on this trip for—to get away from cameras.

Then, too, I don't know nothing about 'em, and can't work 'em.

We may see some fine sights, but you can always lie about things better than you can prove it.

Then you always have to explain that "this picture don't bear do the scene justice."

Oh, yes, and some sleeping bags. Wiley got them. Said they were great to sleep in.

I never was in one of 'em.

You zip 'em up around you after you get in 'em some way. I always have trouble with those zippers. So I can see myself walking around in one of those things all day.

Let of dogs here at the field. Dogs and autograph hunters always find out where anything is going on.

There ain't any unemployed in this country. That's what the so-called idle are doing, getting autographs, and say, they are working twenty-four hours a day.

Fellow comes up and says, "I see all your pictures," and I ask him which ones, and he can't name one. Woman brings little five-year-old girl up and says, "Till wants to meet you. She reads all your little articles in the papers and enjoys 'em."

Till says, "Who is he, ma?"

Girl newspaper photographer, very efficient and pleasant, in fact, all of 'em are. They seem to know we don't know where we are going ourselves, and they don't insist on us telling 'em.

Well, they bout got gas in: Wiley is getting nervous. I want to get this off and leave it before having to send it back from Alaska.

I am anxious to get going, too.

I think we are going to have a great trip, see lots of country that not too many have seen.

But you can't tell.

You could go to the northernmost part of Hudson Bay and expect there would be a pack of folks there in Fords having a picnic, or maybe some holding company stockholders sending telegrams to Roosevelt.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 12, 1935.

BUDGET DAY

The Colony's Budget, being introduced in the Legislative Council to-day, is not expected to be in any way spectacular. Prevailing conditions are such that the Government has of necessity to proceed cautiously in arranging its finances. Details of the proposed expenditure, published yesterday, show that it is planned to cut down outgoings in 1936 by a sum of two million dollars, compared with the current year. None the less, the total is still high, especially when it is borne in mind that the 1934 figure represented a record for the Colony. But despite the wielding of the economy axe, a sum of over three million dollars is being set aside for Public Works Extraordinary, this representing an increase of over two lakhs on the original estimate for this year. It is not to be inferred, however, that this implies embarkation on new projects of any considerable magnitude; the explanation will most likely be found in the intention of the Government to push on with certain big undertakings already in hand. It is, at any rate, reassuring to feel that, despite present difficulties and future uncertainties, the Colony is able to concentrate on the completion of these important schemes. At the time of writing, the estimates of revenue are not to hand, but it is expected that they will be materially below those of the current year, and that a considerable deficit on the coming year's working will have to be budgeted for. It is believed that the Government will base the dollar rate, for the purposes of the Budget, at a figure considerably lower than the present rate of exchange, although above that of the 1s. 4d. rate for the current year. Exchange is always an uncertain factor, and it is thus impossible to say with any exactitude how the estimates may eventually work out. It is to be presumed, however, that the Government has made a close study of the general position and has framed its Budget on rather conservative lines, in the belief that existing conditions dictate the desirability of conserving available funds as far as possible. No new taxation is considered likely, nor, for that matter, is there any prospect of existing burdens being lightened. The most that

NOTES OF THE DAY

THE UGLIEST WORD

Way, since there was a land called England, has cost the nation dear in blood. By the sword those gallant gentlemen of other days won an empire, and held it, in their sovereign's name. War, in the days of sailing ships and breeches and the muzzle-loading musket, was bad enough, costly enough, tragic enough; but to-day it is carnage, chaos, anti-Christ. Yet we must be prepared for it. We must be prepared to face that horror which, even within the compass of short memories, almost destroyed the world. It is incredible; but it is true. This is not more newspaper sensationalism; this is the opinion of able men, broad-visioned men the world over. Mr. George Dern, the United States Minister for War, says that it is inevitable, but he believes that America can avoid it. There are some who will say that newspapermen seize on such expressions of opinion as this, put them into big type and distort them in order to sell papers. There are some who have gone so far as to suggest that newspapers breed war. They don't, unless they are the instruments of a propagandist. War news may sell them a few more papers; but they suffer from the after effects of wars like everybody else, and the profit is soon consumed by losses. No sane man or business enterprise wants war; but, equally certain is it that no sane man will shut his eyes to its possibility and its menace, but will prepare to meet the emergency if it arises.

AN OLD STORY

How many times have we heard that "Recovery is just around the corner," or that "Prosperity is due to-morrow"? Regularly, from here and there, a hundred times a year, since the world's securities toppled, trade went into a decline, and progress slipped a cog. Mr. Rudolph Hecht (no relation to Ben Hecht of novel and satire fame, but the president of the American Banking Association and something of a satirist in American politics) believes that the country is "ready for recovery," whatever that may mean. Most of the people in lands which have suffered from the depression have been ready, and waiting, for recovery for some little time. Hongkong for one. We could do very well with a couple of quarts of that rare vintage of 1921-22, when officials could brag about "peak years" in our commerce and the dollar was worth five or six shillings. Yes, we think we too are ready for recovery.

ENGLAND LEADS

England, we believe, leads in this struggle for economic health. Statistics indicate that industry has forged ahead latterly, that there are fewer unemployed by a good many thousands than there were last year at the same time, that savings are higher, that there is more money in circulation than ever before and that Government revenue is well in advance of what it was in 1934. Britain, too, appears to be in this state of "readiness" for recovery; or perhaps has gone a step farther. The only people who conceivably are not ready for better times are those in opposition to the Government. For a good Government and good times make a hard combination to undermine. If the National Government doesn't make a few mistakes and get into the red with its budget, it will leave its opponents little to complain about. Those in power no doubt will tell us that recovery has arrived, and it is only those on the other side of the fence who still persist in declaring that it is still around the corner.

the Colony can do at the moment is to carry on in a quiet way, in the hope that before another Budget Day comes round the general situation may have shown some improvement, with the prospect of definitely better times ahead.

WE FLEW RIGHT UP AND OVER

By WILL ROGERS

(Reprinted from the Sunday Express)

This is one of the most poignant articles the Sunday Express has ever published. It was written by Will Rogers and posted just a few moments before he and Wiley Post took off from Seattle on the flight that ended in their death in the frozen north.

Rogers chose as the subject of his article his favourite topic—the safety of air travel. The spelling and grammatical essentials are part of the style which helped to make him the most popular man in America.

I am what you might call a mighty poor stroller. The feet are bad, and the legs are worse, so I take mine out in riding. So this is "Thoughts While Flying."

Away here a week or so back I went out to the flying field at midnight at Los Angeles to catch a plane for Seattle. You see, a day or night means nothing to 'em now. With the courses all lighted, they run schedules in the night time the same as in the day.

Bill—that's my first-born—and his mother were with me, and I was off on a little sightseeing trip with Wiley Post.

When my wife knew it was with Wiley, it didn't matter where it was we were going, and she was mighty fine about it.

Well, she is about everything. You can't live with a comedian long without being mighty forgiving.

On the same night, a couple of years or more ago, she had seen me off to Vancouver to catch a boat to go to the Japanese-Manchurian war, and then fly on around the world and meet her in Geneva at one of those disarmament conferences where we used to always go for my amusement.

Then around South America on a 21,000 miles jaunt at one time. And, by the way, she is no mean aviation enthusiast herself. She will make all the short trips with you.

In fact, she was flying the next back to New York and Maine to see our Mary.

But this has nothing to do with "air strolling," as I haven't started strolling yet.

Pretty night, nice stars, I dropped off in Frisco to tend some business early the next morning, and caught a plane out there at eleven the next morning, and then to Seattle at five in the afternoon.

That's a pretty trip. Pilots in Big Boeing just scraped Mount Shasta. Snow all over the old hill. We flew right up and over what I think they call Redwood Highway.

Lots of pretty little towns nestled back in the little valleys and canyons. The first stop out of Sacramento was Medford, Oregon, where a few days before some ambitious reporter had sent out a despatch that he had seen Wiley Post and me flying over there, when we were at that time crossing Arizona.

So this time he is liable to report that I have arrived there by horse and buggy.

Say, there is some mountains over that route. South of Medford, north of Medford, that's the town where they raise fine pears.

I was forced down there on my previous flight to Vancouver and they kept telling me about the fine pears, and I afterwards wrote about them, but said they never did offer me any; they just kept telling me how great they were.

Well, sir, when I returned from around the world they sent me practically all they raised in the valley that year, I think. Every time a box would come it would be more pears and better pears (if possible).

We looked down and saw a big forest fire in the mountains. Pilots said it had been burning for days.

It's beautiful country in Northern California, and Oregon and Washington—everything green, rivers galore. Into Portland, Oregon, a beautifully located city, I asked for Tex Rankin, the flier that had hauled me over that country in the early days. He was a fine flier, and is yet, which means that he's good.

"You are a fine flier" means a lot more than saying, "You was a fine flier." A girl stewardess came along somewhere in the story here with a fine lunch. It had more dainty little sandwiches and knick-knacks than I had ever seen at any lunch in my life. It was arranged lovely. They say it was made up at the St. Francis Hotel, in San Francisco.

Then into Puget Sound country, beautiful bays and islands. Tacoma, who had the first slogan that I can ever remember. It was when I played there in vaudeville about 1908—"Watch Tacoma grow." I have never watched it much since, but it did.

Seattle? That's a hole story in itself—the gateway to Alaska—to the Orient, to Canada.

I have to tell you about seeing the big bombing plane they are just finishing for the army. It's the biggest in the world.

Yes, sir, a plane is a great place to see anything, only the wings are right under where you want to look and you can't see anything.

Did I really see Mount Shasta? They couldn't hide it under the wings. Well, all I know is just what little I see behind this old Lockheed's wings. Its Sirius wings, Lockheed body, three-bladed propeller, big engine.

Wiley calls it "Arora Borelaus." I call it "Post Toasty."

It's a beautiful morning in Seattle, Wash. Wiley and Mrs. Post have been here a few days getting the ship from wheels to pontoons. I've had a mighty pleasant and lovely twenty-four hours here. Everybody's terrible nice and accommodating, fine hotel, lots and lots of tourists coming in and out.

Some that have been to Alaska, some that are going, some that have been to Yellowstone, some that are going.

Seattle is a great travel corner. Mrs. Post and Wiley and I drive out to the field. It's a combination land and water airport, called Great Lakes Washington. That's the lake that turns out those champion rowing college teams.

Mrs. Post decided the last minute to go up to Alaska a few days later by boat, so it's only Wiley and I that are taking off.

The ship looks mighty pretty. It's bright red with a few trimmings of white stripes. The pontoons are awful big-looking things, but Wiley says, "None too big."

Wiley is kinder of Calvin Coolidge on answers: None of 'em are (Continued on Page 5.)

Jottings From The Scrap-Book Of Master Edward

Edited By Eddie

WE are an outcast.

Yet in all respects we are an honourable man.

We do not belt our wife or pick our teeth with a bread knife.

We are not a poet, nor do we possess a dog that goes out into the street without a muzzle.

We always smile at ladies when we pass them, and take off our hat when we travel in lifts with them.

We have never committed murder. Nor have we ever used the wrong fork.

In all these things we are beyond reproach.

Yet we are treated like a shroff. We are not, incidentally, a shroff. Nor are we a bailiff, hawker, insurance-collector, landlord. Yet we are an outcast.

Our family has practically disowned us. Our boss curtly refused us our usual mid-month advance. The boy at the Gloucester hands us our Tiger as though he would prefer it to be a real one. We have to tiffin, and even drink, alone.

We are an outcast.

We don't believe there's going to be an Italo-Ethiopian war.

Latest Scot Joke

A Scotsman on holiday at Dover found a French penny and decided to swim the Channel in order to spend it.

The news of his endeavour, preceded him by wireless (says a London contemporary), and, as he approached Calais, hundreds flocked to the harbour waving small Union Jacks in honour of his tenacity. He turned round and swam back. At Dover they asked him if he had landed and spent his penny.

"No," he explained, "as soon as I got there I could see there was a flag-day on."

OUR AUSTRALIAN VISITORS

HAPPY DAY SPENT IN CANTON

Australia's 34 young feminine Ambassadors returned to Hongkong last night after a day in Canton. Their main impression of Shamen is that they "met crowds and crowds of people."

The whole of yesterday was spent in sight-seeing in the Kwangtung capital and its surroundings, the occasion being actually the first on the whole of their tour in which they have had a real opportunity to go sight-seeing.

This will be rectified to-day as far as Hongkong is concerned, for during the whole day the girls are guests of individual members of the Australian and New Zealand Association, which has arranged comprehensive tours of the Colony.

The young ladies gathered at the Association headquarters in the Gloucester Building at 11 a.m. from where, following a short instructive address by the Rev. H. R. Wells, they departed on their tour of the Colony.

Following this, being held in homes of individual members of the Association, sight-seeing will be resumed this afternoon until 5 p.m. when the charming visitors will be guests of the Women's International Club at tea.

The Australian and New Zealand Association takes charge again to-night when the girls will be entertained at Chinese dinner at the Kam Ling Restaurant, 490 Queen's Road West. Admission to this function, dress for which is informal, will be by tickets.

To-morrow will be spent in further sight-seeing, arranged by the League of Nations Union, and the girls will depart for Shanghai and Japan by the Dollar liner President Grant, leaving at midnight. They return to Hongkong in December.

NAVAL SECRETS REVEALED

SWISS GIRL FOUND GUILTY

Drest, Sept. 11. The trial has concluded here of Lydia Aswald, an attractive Swiss girl, and two naval officers, one of whom was said to be her lover, for revealing naval secrets.

The girl was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment, but as she has already spent seven months in prison awaiting trial, she will only have to serve two months.

The two naval officers were acquitted.—Reuter.

POST OFFICE ROBBERY

SUSPECTS ARRESTED IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, Sept. 11. Twenty-three suspects have been arrested in connection with the robbery at the General Post Office, on Monday, when robbers got away with $91,000 in cash and stamps.

Five of the suspects were apprehended in the International Settlement and the remaining eighteen in Chapel, the latter including five women.—Reuter.

SWATOW SMUGGLING

CANTON CONFERENCE ON MEANS FOR SUPPRESSION

Canton, Sept. 11. Further effective measures are expected to be taken very soon by the Canton Government with regard to the anti-smuggling problem in Swatow and the vicinity.

An important meeting to discuss the anti-smuggling campaign in Swatow was held to-day at the office of the Financial Commissioner, when Mr. Li Yuan-wo, the Mayor of Swatow, and Mr. Chang Lin-yuan, Director of the Anti-Smuggling Office at Swatow, who were recently recalled here by the Financial Commission were present.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

HANKOW'S REVENGE

SHANGHAI JUST BEATEN IN BOWLS MATCH

Shanghai, September 11. In the second Interport Bowls Match between Shanghai and Hankow, played at Shanghai, the Hankow side won by 24 shots to 21 shots, after an extra end had been played. The deciding match takes place on Saturday.—Reuter.

It will be remembered that in the first match of the series Shanghai secured a run-away victory over the visitors.

HOARE'S SPEECH INTERPRETED AS ULTIMATUM

that Signor Mussolini will be deflected from his course.—Reuter.

LAVAL TO REPLY

Paris, Sept. 11. It is expected that M. Pierre Laval, the French Prime Minister, will reply to Sir Samuel Hoare's statement of British policy on Friday.—Reuter.

WARNING TO FRANCE

Geneva, Sept. 11. Sir Samuel Hoare's definition of the British attitude towards the League Covenant is regarded as an unmistakable warning to France and the League and is interpreted here as meaning: "Get on or we get out."

It is understood that Sir Samuel's speech was shown to M. Laval before it was delivered and M. Laval's decision to postpone his reply until Friday is taken to indicate his desire to consult the French Ministers before committing himself to a definite course.

Possibly M. Laval hopes that the reaction to the British Minister's speech may bring Italy to a more reasonable frame of mind, but experienced observers regard this as very problematical.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Mr. Anthony Eden and M. Laval, discussed at length the Italo-Ethiopian problem this evening and also reviewed the whole European situation, like the Anglo-French agreement of February 3.

The Committee of Five of the League Council continued its examination of the Italian memorandum on Ethiopia's alleged unfitness for League membership. It is believed the Committee's report will be based largely on the Paris proposals, without any appreciable alteration in the offer to Italy.—Reuter.

ASSEMBLY ADJOURNS

Geneva, Sept. 11. The Assembly adjourned at 7.15 p.m. until 10 a.m. to-morrow, after further speeches.

Mr. Stanley Bruce, Australia's representative, declined to jeopardise the issue by critical remarks, but asked whether any action should not be regarded as vital to the League's interests, safeguarded by instruments like the Covenant, Kellogg-Pact, Locarno and Stresemann agreements.

"If the crisis confronting the League cannot be resolved," he asked, "can any of these things endure?"

The Hungarian delegate, General Tanczyk, appended strongly for equal armaments rights for Hungary.

Dr. Halvdan Koht, Foreign Minister of Norway, recalled that his country had opposed Ethiopia's entry to the League owing to its backward social conditions, but urged the prevention of conflict on a basis of justice to both sides.—Reuter.

NOT REPLYING

Rome, Sept. 11. Political circles state that Baron Aloisi will not reply to Sir Samuel Hoare or M. Pierre Laval, as it is considered here that the Ethiopian affair is finished as far as Geneva is concerned.

It is denied that there is any question of Italy leaving the League as yet.—Reuter.

ANGLO-ITALIAN SPLIT

regarded here as the turning point in the history of the League, and while taking a strong line he has avoided antagonising Signor Mussolini by direct references to the Ethiopian crisis.

Apart from Sir Samuel Hoare's references to the demands for changes backed by national passions and his remarks in connection with the rights of backward countries to retain their independence, which are regarded as somewhat in the nature of a challenge to Italy, and which are important, French opinion seems to be that the chief interest in the speech lies in the proposal for world-wide investigation to rectify the maldistribution of natural resources.

M. Pierre Laval's reply to Britain is expected to elucidate publicly for the first time how far France is prepared to support Great Britain in upholding the League Covenant.—Reuter.

Local estate amounting to $17,800 was left by Yue Yuk-hung, alias Yue Che-chung (or chong), and otherwise called U Gee-chong, merchant, late of 24 Yuk Sau Street, Wongschichong, who died at the above address on August 23, 1934. Letters of administration to the estate have been granted to Yue Kwan-shi, widow.

PHILIPPINES DEFENCE

GENERAL MACARTHUR TO TAKE OVER ASSIGNMENT?

Washington, Sept. 11. Major General Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff attached to the U.S. War department, is reported to have virtually completed arrangements for vacating his post. It is understood he will proceed to the Philippines to take charge of defence preparations.

He recently flew to Hyde Park where he discussed his mission with President Roosevelt who is, it is understood, deeply concerned with the adequate defence of the Philippines.

Since his return from Hyde Park, General MacArthur has turned over practically all his routine work to Major General G. S. Simmonds.—United Press.

General MacArthur is quitting his present post after a record term of nearly five years, and it has been widely reported he will take the Philippines assignment, though he has thus far declined to commit himself.

President Roosevelt said recently at Washington that Filipino leaders have asked that General MacArthur head the new military mission which will go to Manila next year.

BRITISH LOAN TO CHINA

LONDON KNOWS NOTHING OF RUMOURS

London, Sept. 11. Nothing is known in London either in official or business circles of the Shanghai British loan to the Chinese collection.

It is reported that the Japanese protest with regard to this matter does not surprise Chinese interests.

The latter point out that the report that the Japanese vice-minister for Finance informed Sir Frederick Leith-Ross that Japan considers assistance to China in stabilizing the political situation the first necessity, and more essential than an international loan, only does the "ifs" and crosses the "ts" of the previous forecasts of the Japanese attitude.

It is emphasized that the Japanese press apprehensions regarding the Leith-Ross and the Lamont (Railway experts) Missions are groundless, and it is no part of Great Britain's policy to add to the complications and animosities in the Far East, but very much the reverse.—Reuter.

NAZI POLICY

GERMAN ARMY AS BULWARK OF PEACE

Nuremberg, Sept. 11. A trenchant proclamation by Hitler was read by his deputy, Mr. Wagner, at the opening of the Nazi Party Congress. It stated that "Germany was no plaything of the world. She stands safe in her strength and will not tolerate any attempts to imperil her power. We shall not hesitate to enforce by legislation measures necessary to the solution of the task."

"The Party does not intend to fight the Christian religion, but will not tolerate political activities being continued under that disguise."

Dealing with Jewish problems the proclamation states that Government forbearance is misunderstood by the Jews and the Nazi State should now continue on its way to overcome this grave danger.

It concludes, "We shall strengthen the German Reich through its army and make it a more safe bulwark for European peace."—Reuter's Special.

COMMITTEE MEETS MARKET EXPECTATIONS

London, September 11. The International Tin Committee, meeting in Brussels to-day, decided to fix the production quota for the last quarter at 65 per cent.

This corresponds to the quota of the present quarter, which was fixed at a special meeting last month, and fulfils market expectations in view of the present scarcity of cash tin, and the fact that the Buffer Pool stocks are now practically liquidated.—Reuter.

A communiqué issued by the Tin Committee points out that the production scheme must be considered at least twelve months before the appointed date of expiry.

That condition has been fulfilled and there was no obligation to reach a final decision before the date of the expiry of the present scheme. It was denied that the Malayan and Belgian Congo delegates raised the question of modifying their quotas.—Reuter.

LOSS TO CATHEDRAL

MORTGAGE INTEREST NO LONGER AVAILABLE AS INCOME

St. John's Cathedral Review has the following in the Cathedral Letter:

"We have not been without our own anxiety at the Cathedral during this month and have incurred the biggest financial loss that has ever struck us. Owing to default, a mortgage valued not greatly below $100,000 will cease to bear interest to the Cathedral. The consequence of this is that we of the rank and file shall need to raise 25 per cent. more from donations and subscriptions than had previously been budgeted. In fact, rather more than $20,000. It is something to know where we stand, it is more to be thankful for the continued loyalty of those who do regularly support the Cathedral and for the devoted service of the Finance Committee. Plans will be announced later on for the raising of this additional sum but in the last resort it is true that the Cathedral will only be adequately supported when a large enough number of men and women are converted and determined to keep going not only the Official Cathedral of the Colony but also the Parish Church for the worship of God and the home of fellowship where the young may find encouragement and sick souls healing and forgiveness."

SUGAR REGISTRATION

SCHEME ABANDONED BY CANTON GOVERNMENT

Canton, Sept. 11. In meeting earnest requests from sugar merchants and native sugar manufacturers all over the Province, the Canton Government has decided to abolish the new system of registration and examination of native sugar.

It will be recalled that the Canton Government recently introduced new regulations for the registration and examination of sugar, manufactured by native mills in all part of the Province. The object it was claimed by the Government, was to raise the standard of the native product, and also to protect it. The system however, roused general opposition and it was said that it would lead to control of the industry by the Government.

The objections were voiced by the Native Industry Protection Association, and the Government intimated that they would reconsider the case.

Yesterday a letter from the Commissioner of Reconstruction was forwarded to the Canton Chamber of Commerce announcing that the Government has decided to abolish registration and examination. Circular notices have been sent to all sugar merchants and native sugar mills.—Wah Kiu Yat Po.

London, Sept. 11. Leading English football teams, holding the advantage of home ground, gave brilliant exhibitions to-day when some convincing victories were secured.

The London Arsenal, who are out to create a record by winning the championship for four years in succession won convincingly against Grimsby at Highbury after having been beaten earlier in the season at Blundell Park. The Londoners to-day won by six goals to nil.

Manchester City and Sunderland, both of whom are expected to offer the Arsenal serious challenges for the title this season, also won by wide margins, each scoring six goals in their matches. The Lancashire side had the Wolves at Moss Side while the Yorkshire eleven were entertaining West Bromwich Albion at Roker Park Ground.

Birmingham won for the first time this season, beating Leeds at St. Andrew's Football Ground by two goals to nil.

BRADBURY ENTERS FINAL

LAWN BOWLS WIN YESTERDAY

GOOD MATCH SEEN AT VALLEY

(By "Sagax")

For the first time during the many years that he has been playing Lawn Bowls, B. W. Bradbury, the Craigengower C.C. player, has qualified for the final of the Open Singles Championship. Yesterday he eliminated H. A. Alves, of the Club de Recreo, by 22 shots to 12 on the Civil Service C. C. Green and if he can maintain the form he has been showing during the present season, there is every prospect that he will carry off the title.

Bradbury has been in his best form this season and it is the general opinion that he is bowling better than ever before. There have been occasions when he has not been able to maintain a high standard of bowling but he has rarely allowed his game to deteriorate greatly during the current tournament.

It was necessary yesterday that he reproduce his best form and although the standard fell somewhat during the middle of the game both players were forced to go all out and it was only through his greater experience that the pendulum swung in favour of Bradbury, and gave him the decision in one of the best games in the tournament.

BRADBURY'S EXPERIENCE

Alves, like the majority of the Club de Recreo players, is deadly with his drawing but he lacks experience and although he was able to match shot for shot with his opponent yesterday he was not able to gauge the situation to the same degree of perfection as Bradbury who always carries the play and played it wisely. Alves on some occasions was not able to find the best shot to play.

Notwithstanding a commanding lead against him during the early stages of the game Alves was never demoralised and kept within reach of his opponent until he was deprived of a count of two on the 22nd end, after which he was a beaten man.

The score was then 10-12 in favour of Bradbury but Alves had been given the count and made it 16-14 he might have beaten his opponent.

However, it was a perfect shot which gave Bradbury the count and one that was played for without there being the semblance of a fluke attached thereto.

DESERVING VICTORY

Bradbury was fully deserving of his victory particularly as he held a commanding lead after the first nine ends when he had registered ten points against his opponent's two. Both gave a brilliant exhibition on the first two ends with each player scoring one point.

The standard was not so high for the subsequently couple of ends but it was always fairly high and when the play was scored it was necessary that the wood be in very close proximity to the jack, as both were capable of drawing to within inches of the "kitty".

Alves had a bad break on the sixth end when he conceded an unnecessary three to his opponent. Bradbury was lying one when the Club de Recreo player, in an attempt to dislodge the shot, played heavily on the wood but missed his objective and bumped in two more counters.

However, he recovered somewhat from his deficit of 10-2 and at the 17th end was only 10-13 down. After Bradbury had drawn the shot on the 22nd end when Alves was lying two the loser fell away and, on the next end, gave away a three, being short with three woods and

BAHRAM'S ST. LEGER VICTORY

TRIPLE CROWN TO AGA KHAN

COULD HAVE WON WITH 12 STONES

(Special to "Telegraph")

Doncaster, Sept. 11. A huge crowd cheered the victory of the Aga Khan's Bahram in the St. Leger, while book-makers groaned, the winner being the hottest favourite for many years, starting at 11 to 4 on.

The Aga Khan was in Geneva and was therefore unable to witness his third St. Leger win. Bahram is the first horse since 1903 to win the triple crown, by winning to-day he retained his unbeaten certificate.

The Aga Khan's son, Aly Khan, who led the winner in, said it was most unlikely that Bahram, whose time for the race, 3 min. 14/5 secs., was only one second outside the record, would ever run again.

Snide, the winning jockey, who was lucky to get a last-minute chance to mount Bahram, owing to an injury to Freddy Fox, originally chosen as the jockey, stated, when interviewed by Reuter, that he could have won with twelve stones.

Meanwhile, Fox, who had ridden Bahram to victory in previous classics, heard the result over the wireless in hospital.—Reuter.

Shanghai's best times are: 100 yards free style, 55.3/5 secs.; 100 yards back stroke, 72.3/5 secs.; 220 yards free style, 2 mins. 34.4/5 secs. (set by Chan Chan-hing last month).

Hongkong's best times are: 100 yards free style, 57.1/5 secs.; 220 yards free style, 2 mins. 25 secs.; 440 yards free style, 5 mins. 29.2/5 secs.; 880 yards free style, 11 mins. 47.4/5 secs.; 100 yards back stroke, 69.2/5 secs. (all set last month by Lawrence); 100 yards breast stroke, 72 secs. (set by Kwok Chun-hang last year); 50 yards free style, 25.2/5 secs. (set by Chan Chan-hing last month).

ESSEX IN ECSTASY

HOLDS TOURISTS TO A SECOND COLLAPSE

SOUTH AFRICANS IN TROUBLE

(By FRANK THOROGOOD)

Southend, Aug. 16. If a maker of films had called here soon after lunch I imagine he would have been in his element.

With its peaceful lake, on the edge of which women of all ages sit knitting and ever knitting, there was nothing in the general aspect of Southchurch Park that related to high drama; but in the middle of the cricket pitch the South Africans were losing their first four wickets for 20 runs. Essex continued to hold an advantage and they now require 148 runs to win the match.

The action of the new drama after lunch was a day later; but the villain of the piece remained the same, and for the second time Stephenson created a panic in the South African camp. In the progress of the collapse we had a singular coincidence. As in the first innings, Nichols began by dismissing Mitchell and then Stephenson, often holding his own bowling round about cover point, took the next three wickets.

A SHATTERED TIMBER YARD

The army officer, whose boundless energy and enthusiasm make him a sheer delight to watch, began his onslaught in his third over when he bowled Rowan neck and heels.

A picture of the wicket in its awful destruction would have made a remarkable souvenir. The off stump was sent flying out of the ground; the middle stump launched sideways after the manner of one of our heavy-weight boxers. In the next over Siddle was leg before; in the fifth Wado suffered the same fate and both went according to the new rule. Stephenson's three wickets had been taken at a cost of three runs in spite of a blistered heel, and in the whole match he has captured 10 wickets for 110.

TWO MORE COINCIDENCES

Then the history of the first innings repeated itself in a partnership of recovery. This time the saviours were Dalton and Nourse, who added 95 in a little over an hour.

There has been a strange eerie-like touch about this match. It will be remembered that the chief South African partnership of Wednesday was broken by O'Connor; yesterday it was again O'Connor who stepped in and severed the alliance with a clever c and b low down.

Dalton continued to play fine cricket and when eventually dismissed he had scored 182 for the match. The next best partnership of the innings came when Williams (who on drove Evans for six) and Langton added 71, but Nichols, with the new ball, finished off the innings by taking 3 wickets in 6 overs for 9 runs. Sheffield also distinguished himself by making three clever catches in the slips.

of Boreham, attracted a lot of attention. Against all odds of bowling this lad who is only in his second year of first-class cricket, drove with rare power and 36 of his 43 runs were boundary hits. Four times in one over he hit Langton to the boundary.

Other Essex batsmen worthy of note included Wykes, Peter Smith (who hit Crisp three times to the boundary in one over) and Stephenson.

The Army man, beautifully taken high up with the right hand at short square leg off a hard hit, could scarcely believe the catch had been made and for one brief moment he stood rooted to the earth, gazing at Langton.

I learn that in recognition of his fine bowling against the South Africans the Essex County Club are to present Stephenson with a ball suitably inscribed and mounted.

HOME SOCCER PROSPECTS

NO. 15—BRENTFORD

CLUB MAKES A DISCOVERY

(By CHARLES BUCHAN)

Brentford have now entered the upper class of football. Before they have kicked a ball in the First Division they are discovering a difference. When they go in quest of a player the transfer fee is in thousands where previously it had been in hundreds.

An inside forward of experience is Brentford's objective but the obstacle is the transfer fee demanded for the player they want. Still, Brentford are not worrying—they are content to rely mainly upon the players who have carried them from the Southern Section to the First Division in two years.

These men will be given the opportunity to make good in their new company. New players engaged include Dunn, a centre-forward from Glasgow Celtic; Wilson, the Southend centre-half; Marley, the Leytonstone right half-back; Lynch, a goalkeeper from Yeovil; and Sullivan, a 19-year-old Rochdale winger, son of the old Surrey wicket-keeper, but they must await their chances.

In a conversation I had with Mr. H. C. Curtis, the manager, he said: "We shall be satisfied if we can hold our own during the first season." I am sure that Brentford will do more than that and finish the campaign in the top half of the League table.

GROUND CHANGES

They are a strong side with sufficient skill and team-work to beat more teams than will beat them. With more pace on the wings, I think Brentford would provide the surprise team of the year, like Tottenham Hotspur did the season before last.

There is just one cause for concern. The backs are very deliberate in style and may be worried by the fast pace of the opposing forwards, but Bate-man and Foster are such clever players that I believe they will quickly adapt themselves to the increased speed.

Brentford open the season at Burnley Park against Bolton Wanderers, their promotion opponents. After the match they will attend a dinner given by the Wanderers.

Brentford have improved their Griffin Park home commensurate with their present company. Now the ground will comfortably house 45,000, with covered accommodation on three sides. Visitors will be astonished by the wonderful changes made during the summer months.

the places of players who have taken their departure have been well filled.

All last season's goalkeepers have been retained, as have the more experienced of the backs, although there is room for another, who may yet be found.

Attention has been given to strengthening the half-back line and in the places of Davison who has gone to Rhyd as player-coach, Baker to Bristol City, and Wilson, good men have been secured in Hall from Sheffield

United, McGaughey (Blackburn Rovers) and Webb (Exeter City). With Bourton and Bacon still available as leaders of the forward line there will be no lack of thrust in the attack, and the wing positions have been covered by the acquisition of McNestry (Bristol Rovers) and Fittin (Preston North End).

With twelve forwards at command the club should be able to provide a meritorious attacking line. A change of trainers has been made which has placed R. H. Hill, the ex-Millwall player, in charge, while the careful attention given to the ground has produced a perfect playing field and improved accommodation for the public. The players are: Goal: Pearson, Morgan, Halliwell. Backs: Brown, Brook, Elliott, Binby. Half-backs: McGaughey, Hall, Frith, Mason, Webb, Hall, Bolton. SERIAL STORY

One I Love

by LAURA LOU

CHAPTER XXIII

Mr. Hamilton went on without waiting for a reply. He did not seem to notice that it was Janet by her first name. "I'm leaving the magazine," he said. "It's all happened rather suddenly."

"Why, Mr. Hamilton?" The man smiled. "Surprise you? Well, it's still something of a surprise to me, too. I'm going with Coleman's group. It's well, frankly, a chance to try some things we couldn't do here. Chambers has been very decent about it—very considerate. I'm going to Philadelphia. Leaving in just a few days. There are some things I'll have to attend to first."

There was real regret in Janet's voice. She said, "Oh, but I'm sorry, Mr. Hamilton! I mean—of course it's fine for you but we'll miss you so. The office won't be the same without you!"

Hamilton's smile was almost boyish. "Not? Well, that'll be a good thing, I guess. I've been a pretty hard taskmaster. Cross and irritable!"

"Oh, but you haven't! Why, you haven't at all!"

Hamilton nodded. "I have," he said, "but I really didn't mean to be. You've stayed here after your day's work was supposed to be through. You do more work than any secretary I've ever had and you know how to go ahead without asking questions. Maybe you didn't think I've noticed how much overtime you've been putting in the last few months but I have!"

"But I didn't mind," Janet assured him. "I know you didn't. That's just the point! You've let me impose upon you. Never complained! If you'd only reminded me that you were supposed to stop at five o'clock I'd have let you go then."

"Gladly! But I think I can do a little better than that. I've been looking around, thinking, trying to find a position that would suit you. One where you could be as useful as you have been here and where the work would be congenial. I think I've found it."

"Haven't all been settled," Hamilton told her, frowning slightly. "I was coming to that. You see, this offer from Coleman's came quite unexpectedly. I haven't talked to anyone about it except Chambers. He's arranging for me to get away immediately and for a time they'll carry off without naming a new advertising manager."

"Oh!" It didn't answer Janet's problems. She was wondering how all this was going to affect her. Affect her, it assuredly would. How would she get along with her new employer? A stranger, most likely. Hamilton had been demanding but he also had his good points.

He was speaking again. "There's something else," he said, and hesitated. "I don't like to say this, but when my job is ended here I'm afraid you'll be lost." She didn't speak but her eyes widened and she made a quick little gesture with her hand.

"It's not that your work hasn't been appreciated!" Hamilton went on quickly. "I assure you that it has. I've told Chambers you're unusually capable. He knows that. He hasn't been going so well with the magazine. It's going to pull out all right. I'm sure of it. But for the next year there's no question but that expenses must be reduced. That's why no one is to be named to take my place. Dawson and Hartley will have a promotion. Share them somehow. I'm not sure myself the plan will work but at least they'll make a stab at it. If it fails they'll try something else. But whatever happens the office staff is to be reduced. They'll have to make other cuts too."

"You're trying to tell me," Janet said slowly, "that I won't have a job?"

Hamilton nodded. "To put it bluntly—yes." Janet glanced down at the typewriter keys before her. She had used them for over two years. She had sat at this desk, spent the greater part of each day, six days a week, in this plain box-like room with its plaster walls covered with maps and charts, its carpetless floor, its dingy and rickety bookcase. It had seemed to Janet that, though the rest of her world might rock, this part surrounded by these four office walls—was secure. She had never dreamed that this could happen. Discharged. That was the word for it!

Her eyes raised. Hamilton was watching her. He said kindly, "I've been thinking about you. I don't like to go away and leave you looking for work. Jobs are hard to find these days."

"I'll find something," Janet assured him. Her voice was flat. "You'll give me a recommendation, I suppose?"

"Gladly! But I think I can do a little better than that. I've been looking around, thinking, trying to find a position that would suit you. One where you could be as useful as you have been here and where the work would be congenial. I think I've found it."

She was listening eagerly but she did not interrupt. Mr. Hamilton didn't like to be interrupted when there was something he wanted to say.

"It's not quite the same kind of work you've been doing," he went on, "but I think you could handle it splendidly. It's with my sister. She's a widow and since her husband's death she's been living in a small house and doing nothing but household work. I don't think it's good for her. She's not in the best of health, though she's not in any sense an invalid."

Janet's eyes were fixed on him. "What kind of work?" she asked. "I don't think it's good for her. She's not in the best of health, though she's not in any sense an invalid."

"What kind of work?" she asked. "I don't think it's good for her. She's not in the best of health, though she's not in any sense an invalid."

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Right out of the pages of classic history on the screen comes "Great Expectations," the greatest, most absorbing and most human story Charles Dickens ever wrote. It comes to the King's Theatre very soon. The classic is produced in grand style and with one of the greatest casts. The story of "Great Expectations" will never grow old. It is just as fascinating and thrilling to-day as it was almost 100 years ago! Magwitch, the convict; "Pip," the young man of great expectations; Estella, Jaggers, the eccentric Miss Havisham, all step out of the pages of the past into vivid, living personalities. A truly distinguished cast, headed by Henry Hull, America's premier interpretive actor; Phillips Holmes, Jane Wyatt, Florence Reed, Alan Hale, George Breakston, Francis L. Sullivan, and many others, interpret these famous characters. The film is an authentic, sympathetic translation of the sweeping novel by the English master, directed by Stuart Walker, who has been a Dickens scholar all his life and was for many years the leading exponent of the repertory theatre in America.

"It's a Gift"

It seems that with each successive screen appearance W. C. Fields, Paramount's genius of comedy, becomes funnier and funnier. Because although we thought he had reached insuperable heights of comedy in his previous starring films, "You're Telling Me" and "The Old-fashioned Way," he seems to have exceeded his own possibilities in "It's a Gift," next change at the Queen's Theatre. It is the funniest thing Fields has ever done, and that, to those of you who know Fields, is saying plenty! Ably supported by a cast which includes the inimitable Baby Le-Roy, now a talking actor, Kathleen Howard, Jean Rouverol and Julian Madison, Fields go through a series of routines, old and new, none of which he has brought to the screen before, and every one of which leaves the audience gasping for breath.

"The Bride of Frankenstein"

The motion picture's strangest drama on the screen is at the King's Theatre to-day, this being the hair-raising Universal story, "The Bride of Frankenstein." It is a story of a mad scientist of a "Monster" in human form, built up from parts of dead bodies. This grotesque creature embarked on a wild career of murderous destruction, with his crimes mainly prompted by boredom and fear. In "The Bride of Frankenstein" he learns to talk, and becomes part of a vast excitement when a woman is similarly created at the height of a wild storm. Then follows a crashing climax which will leave any audience well-nigh breathless. As before, Karloff is starred as "the Monster," and gives a truly remarkable characterization of the menacing, lumbering brute, savage and yet filled with misunderstood kindness. Karloff's supporting cast includes many such talented players as Colin Clive, Valerie Hobson, O. P. Heggie, Ernest Thesiger, Elsa Lanchester, Una O'Connor, Dwight Frye and E. E. Clive. "The Bride of Frankenstein" is the first of the independent production of Carl Laemmle, Jr., and the picture has been produced on a lavish scale, with an exceptional array of highly artistic settings filled with sombre beauty.

"Calm Yourself"

For sheer entertainment on the three-way road to hilarity, adventure and romance, "Calm Yourself" features the screen's laziest. Out of its story complications it weaves more goods laughs than any picture seen in weeks. With Robert Young and Judette Evans heading a grand cast, this new Production from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios closes at the Queen's Theatre to-day. Made in the best farcical manner, it possesses rare speed and so its drama packs all the more punch while its merriment is as swift as a fun-loving heart could desire. The cast is admirably chosen. Miss Evans is bewitching and Young meets all the demand of a big role. Betty Furness has her best part to date and is more than acceptable. Shirley Ross is fine as the banker's bride. Other splendid performers are Harlan Albert, Ralph Morgan, who is stellar as the banker; Nat Pendleton, Claude Gillingwater, Raymond Hatton and Herman Bing.

sister needs someone to help her and I think you're well suited for the position.

"What would I have to do?" Janet asked. "Well, I don't know that I can tell you exactly. You would take charge of her correspondence—and there's a lot of it. You would make appointments for her and see that she doesn't promise to be two places at the same time. There might be dealings with the servants for you to attend to. My sister entertains quite a little. It's quite possible that every day would be different. Do you think you'd like to try it?"

Janet hesitated. Then she said, "I would like to try it, Mr. Hamilton. I don't know if I could do it but I'd like to try."

"Oh, you can do it, all right! I haven't the slightest doubt about that. Remember the other day I asked if you liked cats? Well, my sister has a Persian she's very fond of. Had it for several years. Buster's the cat's name and Buster will be around all the time. That's why I wanted to know if you objected to cats."

Janet laughed. "If the cat doesn't object to me," she said, "I'm sure we'll get along all right."

"There's one other thing," Hamilton added as an afterthought. "My sister will want you to live in her home. You'll find it very pleasant there. I'm sure. You'll have your own quarters, of course, and a certain time each day to yourself. It won't be like coming to an office, though, and leaving it."

Give up her room at Mrs. Snyder's? The little kitchen and the table that was just big enough for two and the comfortable old armchair? Could she give up that room with its happy memories? Yes, but there were memories that weren't so happy! There were memories that made her eyes darken and seem to contract quickly.

"I won't mind that," Janet said. "Where does your sister live and when can I see her?"

Hamilton gave her the address and she wrote it down. His sister's name was Mrs. Curtis and she lived in a fashionable section on the west side. He told Janet how to get there. Then over the telephone he made an appointment for her to call on Mrs. Curtis the next afternoon.

"I think you're going to like it out there," he assured the girl, evidently well pleased with himself. "Yes, I think you'll like it. And now will you call Humphries and tell him I'll get that report over to him this morning?"

Janet put the call through. She and Hamilton were both soon completely occupied by details of the day's tasks. Janet went through all the familiar duties but with what a difference! The fact that she was to wear such a little white lounge changed everything. It changed Janet herself.

"But of course I don't really know yet," she reminded herself. "I won't know until I've talked to Mrs. Curtis." At 2.30 the next afternoon Janet went up the walk to the brick house with the gabled windows and rang the bell.

KWONG SAI'S MISHAP

BULKHEAD SAVES VESSEL FROM FILLING

Further details of the unfortunate mishap suffered by the Kwong Sai, a Canton river steamer, were revealed yesterday afternoon, when a detailed examination of the ship disclosed that the damage is greater than was at first thought.The Kwong Sai was on passage from Canton to Hongkong when she struck White Rock, off Ma Chau, at 3 o'clock in the early morning of Tuesday, during a blinding rainstorm which rendered visibility almost nil.
The fore-peak was stove in nearly sixteen feet, and the hole caused by the rock measured ten feet by fifteen feet. Fortunately, the sea was calm, otherwise disaster would have overtaken the vessel."The ship was actually kept afloat by the very strong fore-hold bulkhead, together with the engine room pumps," stated Mr. George White, Chief Engineer of the vessel. "If the bulk-head had carried away, the ship would have filled with water."Captain J. Acock, master of the Kwong Sai, contradicted the report that there had been a panic among the 960 passengers aboard the ship when she struck the rock. There was not the least sign of panic, and they behaved themselves wonderfully well, donning the life-belts as instructed.
The passengers, after being assured by the officers that everything was all right and that there was no danger to the vessel, sat on deck from the time the ship struck the rock till 10.30 o'clock, when the Kwong Sai arrived in port. They did not question the officers as to the amount of danger the ship was in, and obeyed every order given them.

The Casualties

The only casualties were one Chinese passenger killed and several others injured. The Chief Officer, Mr. T.
Jones, received a nasty knock on the head when he was thrown to the deck as the ship listed when she struck.The officers expressed the greatest pleasure at meeting the police launch in Chinese waters while steaming slowly into port after the vessel drew off White Rock. There were, as a matter of fact, two police launches, and their personnel gave the greatest possible assistance to those on the crippled ship, not only by wirelessing to Hongkong about the mishap but standing by the vessel until her arrival in port.The Kwong Sai immediately went to Bailey's slipway on her arrival here. It is revealed that repairs to the vessel will take from eight to ten days, before she can resume her run on the West River.She is owned by the Shui On Steamship Company and not by the Yuen
On Company as previously stated.
Her officers are Captain J. Acock
(Master), Mr. T. Jones (Chief Officer) and Mr. G. White (Chief Engineer).

KOWLOON AFFAIRS

RESIDENTS' ASSOCIATION DISCUSSION

The following are minutes of a meeting of the General Committee of the Kowloon Residents' Association, held last Monday in St. Andrew's Church Hall.

Present—Mr. Li Chor Chi (President), Mr. T. B. Wilson (Vice President), Mr. J. H. Shaw (Hon. Secretary), Messrs. D'Almeida e Castro, C. M. Hall, W. Goldenberg, R. Pestonji, D. W. Munton, I. N. Murray, E. Kern, Lam Ming-fan, Lt. Col. E. D. Matthews and the Rev. J. R. Higgs.

Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. R. P. Phillips, H. F. Un, and W. J. Ratley.

Letters regarding Markets, "Star" Ferry Co. Ltd., N. C. Air Mail, C.B.S. stationery, Street Lighting and Public Utilities were read and approved.

Markets.—The letter from the Col. Secretary on this subject having been read it was decided to let this matter stand over until such time as it is possible to obtain information as to the type of store it is proposed to erect on the vacant ground outside the market. The sub-committee will report if the Market By-Laws are amended in regard to encroachment on passage ways.

The Bus Services

Bus Services.—The Secretary reported that no reply had been received to our letter of August 20, but Mr. Lam Ming-fan advised verbally that the question of decreased fares or longer sections was now under consideration.

Hongkong and China Gas Co. Ltd.—The letter regarding charges having been read, together with the Gas Company's acknowledgment thereof, it was decided to let this matter stand over awaiting a further communication.

"Star" Ferry Co. Ltd.—The letter to the Ferry Company and their reply thereto having been read, it was decided to let this matter stand over for the time being.

China Light and Power Co. Ltd.—A letter from a Kowloon resident regarding the electricity rates of the China Light and Power Co. Ltd. was read and the Secretary was instructed to write to this gentleman advising that this matter was in hand.

The Playgrounds

Children's Playgrounds.—After the August meeting a query arose regarding the action to be taken on this matter, and the Secretary was instructed to leave the subject over for further discussion at the September meeting.

The K. R. A.—The letter from the Government is taking steps to improve the Children's Playgrounds, and it was, therefore, decided to postpone any further action until such time as this is needed.

N. C. Air Mail.—The reply from the Postmaster General on this subject was read and the Secretary was requested to write to this official and ask if representations could not be made to the people concerned in an effort to obtain a reduction in rates.

The Secretary was further instructed to write and raise the whole question of Postal Rates from Hongkong.

Street Lighting.—The Association's letter to the Colonial Secretary on this subject was read, and the Secretary advised that to date he had only received a formal acknowledgment of his communication. It was decided to let this matter stand over and await Government's reply.

Traffic Matters

Traffic.—It is considered that the islands down each side of Prince Edward Road constitute a menace to the vehicular traffic, and the Secretary was instructed to write to the Automobile Association and ask if they would approach Government in an effort to obtain the removal of these islands. The K. R. A. will support any application on these lines.

The Secretary was further instructed to write to the D. P. W. requesting that the unmade portion of Waterloo Road extending from the junction at Argyle Street to approximately 100 yards southwards, should be surfaced for traffic. It is considered that leaving a portion of unmade road as has been done, and thereby forming a bottle-neck at this point, constitutes a danger to the public and that traffic should have the benefit of the full width of the roadway.

Botanical Gardens.—Discussion took place on this matter and the Secretary was instructed to write Government and ask when it was proposed to begin work upon the new Jubilee Park.

Miscellaneous.—It was suggested that the K.R.A. should make a donation of $40 to the St. Andrew's Church funds, as some tangible mark of appreciation for the continued free use of the Church Hall for all their meetings, and also that $10 should be given to the caretaker in recognition of his services in preparing the hall. This suggestion was heartily approved and the Secretary was instructed to take the necessary steps to see that this money was passed to the right quarters.

BRITAIN'S STAND

PLAIN SPEAKING TO ITALY

Geneva, Sept. 11.

It is understood that M. Laval has had a telephone conversation with Signor Mussolini, but so far as can be ascertained, Il Duce was not disposed to show a more amenable frame of mind.

This was the prelude to one of the most exciting days Geneva has had for many years.

The thronged corridors cheered the arrival of M. Laval and Sir Samuel Hoare.

Sir Samuel Hoare's Speech

Sir Samuel Hoare rose at 11.12 a.m. to address the hushed Assembly of the League.

In his opening sentences the British Foreign Minister declared that it was unjust and dangerous to mislead to suggest that Britain was animated by a lower motive than fidelity to the League, and also that even this fidelity cannot be relied upon.

On the contrary the British Government's attitude has always been unwavering fidelity to the League and in the present case it is continuing that rule.

The recent response of public opinion shows how completely the Nation supports the Government in full acceptance of the obligations of League membership as the keynote of its foreign policy.

Collective security is a complex conception, meaning much more than what is commonly called "Sanctions." It means not merely Article XVI, but the whole Covenant, and a scrupulous respect for all treaty obligations.

It was based on freely accepted and fundamental obligations to submit disputes to peaceful methods of settlement, according to the procedure provided by the Covenant.

If the burden of the Covenant obligations is to be borne, it must be borne collectively. The security of the many cannot be ensured by the efforts of the few, however powerful.

Britain's Share

"Britain will be second to none in her intention to fulfil within the measure of our capacity the obligations which the Covenant lays upon us. We believe that all nations have a valuable contribution to make to the common stock of humanity; we believe that the backward nations, without prejudicing their independence and integrity, are entitled to expect the more advanced peoples to assist in the development of their resources, and to build up their national life."

Finally there is the obligation of collective action to terminate in the event of any member of the League resorting thereto in disregard of the covenant.

Underlying these obligations was the expectation that this system would be universally supported by the sovereign states of the world, or by far the greatest part thereof.

Sir Samuel Hoare confessed that British sincerity to the ideals of the League springs from an enlightened self-interest, in relation to which he cited the example of the possibility of better use of the world's economic resources.

With regard to raw materials from Colonial possessions, it is not unnatural under the existing state of affairs to arouse fears of exclusive monopolies being established at the expense of countries not possessing colonial empires. It may be that the problem is exaggerated and exploited for other purposes, but we should be foolish to ignore it and Britain should be ready to participate in an investigation into these matters.

Change—But Not by Threats

Something must also be done to remove causes from which war is apt to arise. Some other method than a recourse to arms must be found to adjust the natural play of international forces, but the justice of a claim for change is not necessarily proportionate to the national passions which may be found in support thereof, and change desired too often would create more injustices than it removed.

Such changes will have to be made when the time is ripe, but not before, and not by unilateral action, and not by threats of war. Members of the League of Nations must address themselves to this as well as to other aspects of security if the rule of law in international affairs is to be established and confirmed.

Britain Cannot Act Without Support

A United Press cable states that Sir Samuel said that while he realized Italy's need for room for expansion "Britain was in favour of applying collective resistance to all acts of unprovoked aggression." He appealed to Italy not to resign from the League and emphasized that Britain will not attempt to apply sanctions unaided. "If the covenant-burden is borne it must be borne collectively."

Reactions To The Speech

The Italian delegation was painfully impressed by Sir

A NEW BANKNOTE

ATTRACTIVE ISSUE BY THE MERCANTILE BANK

The Mercantile Bank of India have issued a striking new series of fifty-dollar notes, of the same size as their old ones.

The front is bordered with decorations done in brown, which is the prevailing colour of the note. The centre is taken up by two "frames," joined together by a bar with the words "Fifty Dollars" on it. The left-hand frame contains the head in brown of a young Greek of classical times, and the other frame has the watermark, the Greek's head reversed. From the left-hand frame emanate alternate rays of pale yellow, pale blue, and light green, stretching to the borders, taking up whatever space is left by the frames and the bar.

The back of the note has a picture of a great Chinese house, with a long flight of stairs leading up to it. There are three different colour variations—light brown to the left, dark brown in the centre, and light green at the right. The date of issue is July 1, 1935.

Canton Bondfire

A report has been submitted to the Kwangtung Provincial Government by the Kwangtung Provincial Bank to the effect that $3,000,000 old notes of the former Kwangtung branch of the Central Bank were destroyed publicly on September 3, says the Canton Daily Sun. Bills of credits, about $3,000,000 in number, issued at Hoihow, Pakhoi and Swatow by the Provincial Bank, which were recalled recently, will also be destroyed soon.

Samuel Hoare's speech, and one official, interviewed by Reuter, asked, "why does Britain take such a strong line against her old friend Italy, and show such weakness as against Germany and Japan?"

An eminent French commentator expressed the opinion that the speech was "one of the finest efforts heard at Geneva. It takes one back to the days of Lord Curzon, when Britain emerged from her reserve and resumed the undisputed leadership in foreign affairs."—Reuter.

Comment From China

Dr. W. W. Yen (China), declared that it was gratifying that the Powers forming the pillars of the League, now that they are confronted with a grave situation in Europe and elsewhere, finally realised that the peace of the world depends on their efforts to infuse new life into the League, and that for the League again to fail to assert its authority would irretrievably ruin its efficacy as an instrument of peace.

Membership of the League automatically imposed the obligation to participate in joint and collective efforts to maintain the territorial and political integrity of League members.

If all members of the League fulfilled their obligations under the Covenant neither new principles nor new procedure would be necessary for assuring collective security.

Describing the regional pacts as, like half a loaf better than no bread, Dr. Yen said it was imperative that a system of regional pacts should be extended to every part of the world.

In conclusion he said that the League, while taking cognizance of wars, declared or undeclared, in various parts of the world, had failed, not in that it lacked interest, and the means to right wrong, but that it lacked courage to bring wrong-doers to reason.

This state of things profoundly disappointed the Chinese and other peoples.

Dealing with the internal reconstruction of China, the speaker said that in the last few years the economic development had been remarkable. A strong and prosperous China was the key to world economic recovery and world peace.—Reuter.

According to a United Press message Dr. Yen declared that the League cannot concentrate all its efforts on preserving peace in Europe and remain aloof from the threats to peace outside Europe.

During the last few years the statesmen of the world seem to have attached undue and greater importance to events transpiring in Europe, and tried to minimize the gravity of those occurring elsewhere. Principles were compromised for the sake of expediency, and infractions of the Covenant were in fact tolerated.

ETHIOPIA'S REPLY

The small-statured M. Hawariat, who was scarcely visible above his desk, made an outstandingly conciliatory speech in which he welcomed any disinterested steps emanating from the League to raise the economic level of Ethiopia.

He said: "We shall regard them as a fraternal gesture to guide us on the path to progress." M. Hawariat invoked the principle of President Wilson that self-rule was best, and affirmed the belief that the League had ended an era of conquest and would guarantee freedom for all.—Reuter.

QUEEN'S TO-MORROW.

HE HAD POWER OF A DICTATOR

A MAN With a Load of Power retired from office this month—Admiral Sir Colin Keppel, Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Commons.

For twenty years he has wielded power such as few dictators have.

He was the only man in Britain to have a private prison—the Clock Tower of the Houses of Parliament.

He was the only man who could call on the services of the Army, Navy and Air Force to assist him in carrying out his duties.

He was the only man who could break down doors and invade any building—and imprison any one who resisted. Yet there is no more courtly and gentle man alive than Sir Colin. If he had a load of power, he had a bigger load of duties.

He was the "policeman" of the House of Commons, responsible for maintaining order among M.P.s and "strangers" alike.

The Sergeant-at-Arms was in two crises. In neither did his courtesy and calm desert him.

Snatched The Mace
The first was when an unruly Socialist M.P. snatched the Mace.

Before most people had recovered their breath, Sir Colin was striding up the floor of the House to the rescue of the emblem of the King's authority.

Twisting it firmly from the M.P.'s grasp, he calmly restored it to its place on the table.

The other crisis was when turbulent John McGovern had to be thrown bodily from the Chamber.

BRIDGE FORTUNES

$250,000 YEARLY FROM CARDS

London, Aug. 25.
THE champion bridge player of the world is in London. He is the man who has defeated Ely Culbertson and has swept America with his new "4 ace system."

Thirty-four-years-old Michael Gottlieb is a wealthy New York estate agent.

Six years ago he first became interested in serious bridge and perfected a new system, which, with the help of his three partners—David Burnstone, Oswald Jacoby, and Howard Schenken—he has made almost perfect.

Gottlieb was once Culbertson's partner, but now they are rivals.

"I hope, with the help of my partners, to make $250,000 next year," he told interviewers when he arrived in London. "I have come over to England to try and make bridge the great game it is in the States."

"It is no exaggeration to say that a first-class player who devotes his life to the game can make $100,000 a year."

"There are many first-class players in your country, but as yet bridge is not the attraction it is in my own land."

"I am preparing the ground to make bridge a national pastime. In the States there are 4,000 qualified teachers of the game who have to pass examinations and obtain diplomas before they are qualified to teach."

"My ultimate object is to arrange a competition which will run on the lines of the Davis Cup at Wimbledon. We have the cup all ready; it only remains to wake up other countries to the importance of the game."

Bombers Will Aid British Shipping

SPECIAL DEFENCE UNIT SOON

The vital problem of protecting Great Britain's coastal shipping in time of war is to be tackled by the creation of a special defence unit, consisting of nearly 200 fast aeroplanes.

The Air Ministry has ordered work on the construction of these machines to start at once. They are to be—

Low-winged monoplanes, with retractable undercarriage to increase speed;

Two engines, which can be used alternatively;

Speed of nearly 190 m.p.h.;

Crew of four, and a bomber's compartment and a machine-gun turret.

Hitherto coastal reconnaissance has been entrusted to five flying-boat squadrons—twenty machines—stationed at Pembroke, Mount Batten, Gosport, Calshot and Felixstowe.

Long Caused Anxiety
But it has now been established that these land machines can be built more quickly and can be more economically maintained than flying-boats.

The task of protecting coastal shipping in time of war has long caused anxiety to the Air Ministry. It has to be remembered that not only has incoming shipping to be protected, but also outgoing vessels, carrying exports.

These ships are subject to the gravest menace in the narrow approach waters around the coast, where they are vulnerable to attack by swift enemy aircraft.

One-third of Great Britain's seaborne traffic enters and leaves the Port of London, so that it is urgently necessary that there should be adequate protection.

Vest-Pocket Dillinger Makes Escape

THE MIDGET KILLER

HENRY ("MIDGET") FERNEKES has escaped from a prison in Joliet, Illinois. Police and "G men" are on his trail. The Middle West of America is suffering from an attack of "Dillingeritis."

For Midget Fernekes, 5ft. 2ins. in height, killer, bank robber and notorious bad man, is more ruthless than the dead Dillinger, more scientific in his killings, more modern in his weapons.

Fernekes was serving the ninth year of a ten-year term for murder and bank robbery. He obtained civilian clothes from outside the prison and escaped from his cell by posing as a visitor who had come the wrong way.

He walked unmolested and unchallenged through the prison gates. In fact, one uniformed guard at the gate touched his cap politely and called a cab, in which the midget drove to freedom.

Midget Fernekes made a careful study of criminology before he embarked on his sensational career.

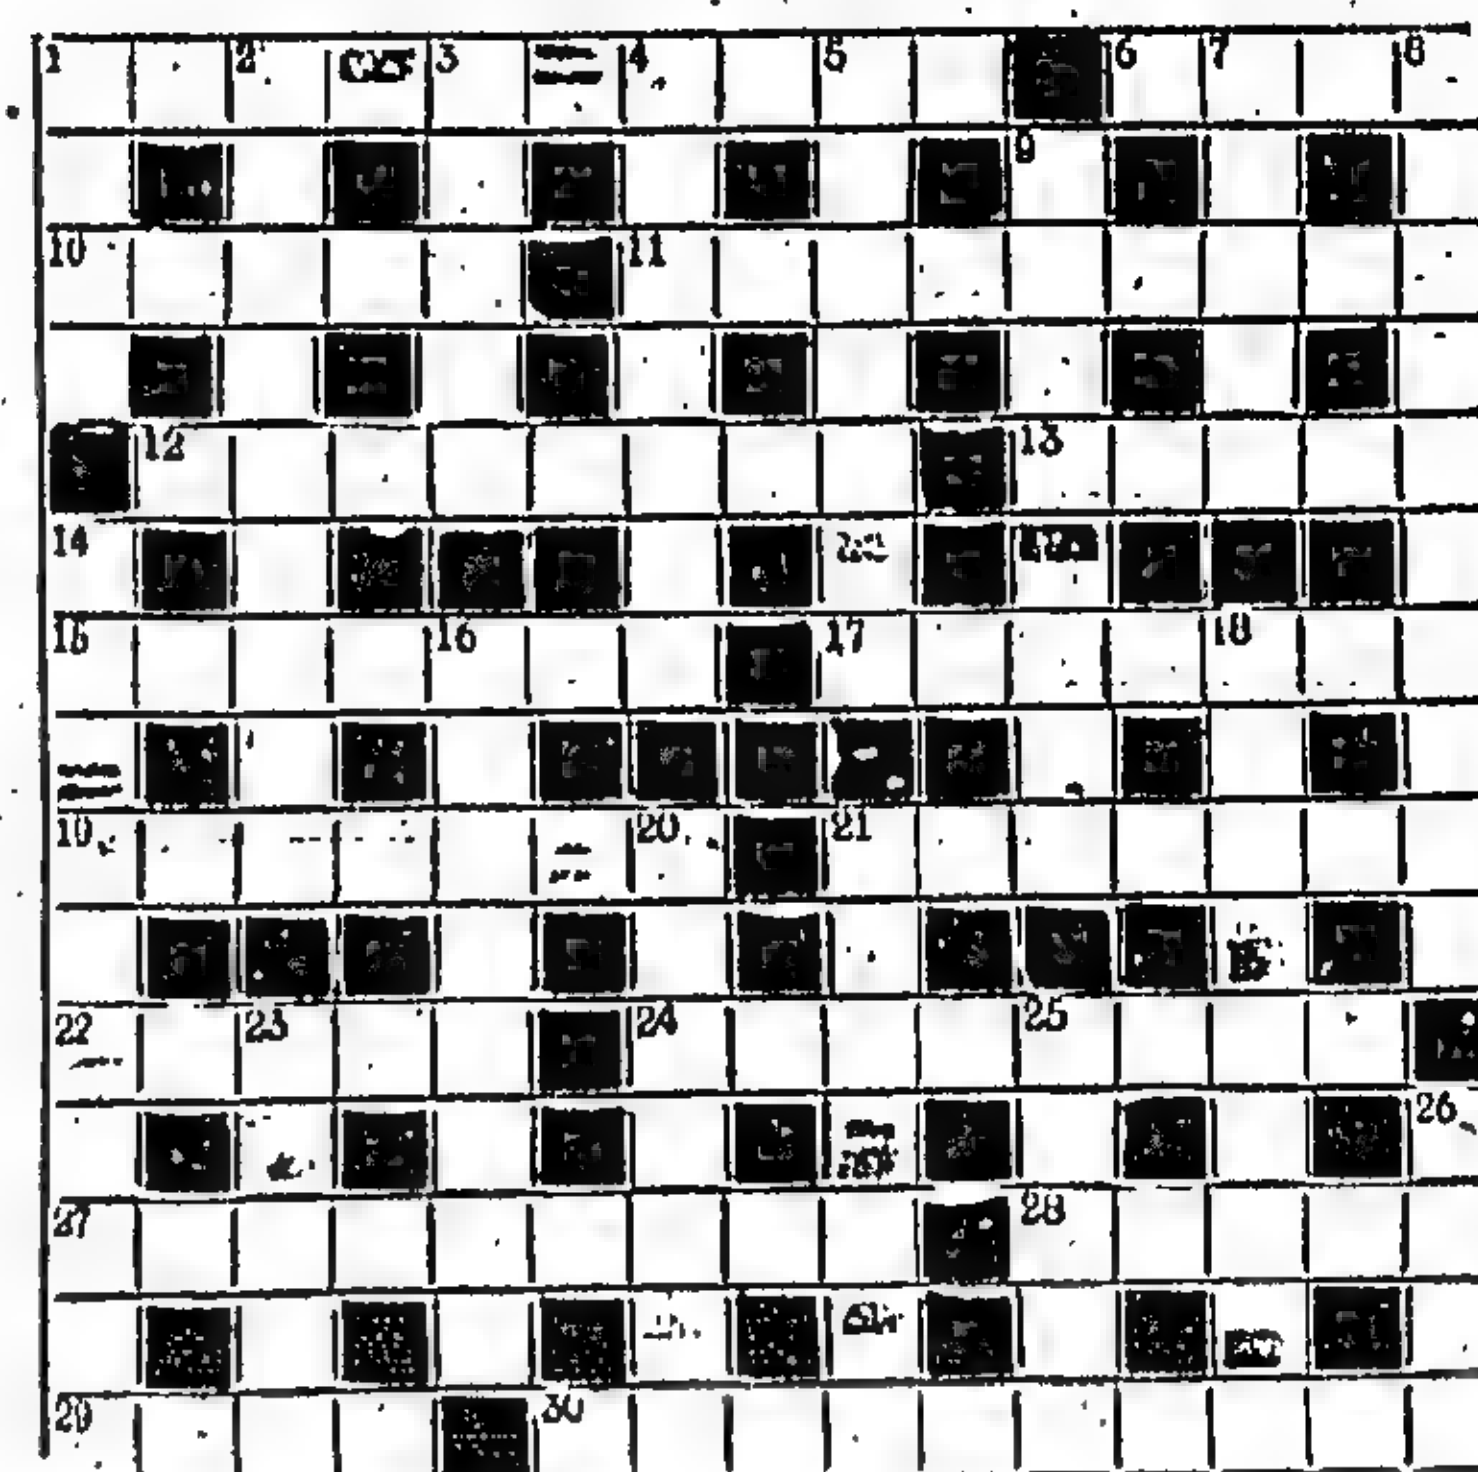

He learned chemistry, fingerprinting and safecracking as a student of a legitimate profession.

vessels could leave or enter at night-time, and thus be virtually invisible to enemy machines.

But with the wide cruising range of modern aeroplanes, these ships could be intercepted in daylight, and destroyed in narrow waters, where they would be unable to scatter.

It is understood that the Air Ministry and its advisers are planning to have this new unit ready for any emergency within a comparatively short time, and that the number of this type of machines will be increased as necessity arises.

Pawns In War
Of StatesPEOPLE STARVE AS GOVERNMENTS
WRANGLE

Washington, Aug. 28.—The nation's unemployed—4,000,000 needy men, women and children who cannot earn a living—are pawns in the contest between the Government and states over who shall pay for their keep.

There is no hope for them in the New Deal's U.S.$4,000,000,000 work-relief programme. States, counties and municipalities have, for the most part, refused to feed and clothe them.

The showdown will come late this autumn, after almost a year of bickering. They will continue meantime to live on Federal doles.

Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins demanded last winter that political subdivisions care for their needy who could not qualify for the employment drive because of mental or physical incapacity.

Local governments protested. They asserted their treasuries were empty and recalled President Roosevelt's promise that "no one shall starve." The situation in Ohio is an example.

The state, with 330,000 unemployed out of a total relief load of some 1,130,000 persons, has been receiving $9,000,000 a month from the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

The needy who cannot work still will be destitute when the job programme gets under way. Hopkins has insisted he will cut off direct relief grants. Governor Martin L. Davey refuses to offer any means of providing state funds.

The Ohio legislature passed a bill giving county commissioners the power to call a special election on issuing relief bonds against anticipated revenue from the one per cent. utility excise tax. But counties generally are opposed to the plan.

Hopkins sought to force the issue when he threatened to cut the state's U.S.$9,000,000 relief allocation by 50 or 60 per cent. during August. He changed his position, however, and made the full amount tentatively available.

Hopkins holds the whip hand. Backed by President Roosevelt, he can supply only enough of the U.S.$4,000,000,000 fund to finance the number of jobs he allows each state. By cutting off direct relief, political subdivisions must care for their lame and blind or allow them to go hungry.

Hopkins said he will not hesitate to take that drastic move. He explained states and their subdivisions cared for their needy unable to work before the depression through local relief funds, community chests and the like.

The problem will not come near solution until after November 1, when the government plans to end the date. Indications are, however, that grants must be made at least until January 1 because of delay in transferring employable needy from relief rolls to federal pay rolls.—United Press.

NEW DREYFUS
REVELATIONSnake Mystery On
Devil's Island

Paris, Aug. 25.—"Dreyfus was lodged in a special cell built for him outside the barracks," he writes. "One night I heard desperate shrieks coming from the prisoner."

"I thought he had gone mad, so I called out the guard. We lined up with bayonets. The sergeant, brandishing a revolver, opened the door."

20-Foot Boa Constrictor

"There was Dreyfus on top of a cupboard. Below him was a boa constrictor with its head angrily swaying to and fro. One of the men, whipping out his bayonet, decapitated the monster, which measured over 20ft. Searching inquiries were made, but none ever discovered how the snake got into the cell."

One can imagine what would have been the effect in France of the news of the death of Dreyfus in such a manner, only a few months after a trial and conviction which had convulsed the whole country.

Col. Dreyfus, victim of an atrocious conspiracy to find him guilty of spying, died on July 12 last.

Chelsea Parson
Wears A SkirtAND HER SERMONS
ARE FUNNY

London, Aug. 30.—THE Rev. Miss Doreen Hopewell, the new woman minister of a Chelsea (London) Congregational Church, believes in:

Comfort tip-up, plush seats in church;
Free-and-easy dress for her congregation, and
Funny stories in her sermons.

Miss Hopewell has had to fight hard to enter the ministry. The greatest opposition to the idea of a woman preacher came from the women themselves, she said:

"Women, especially the middle-aged want a man preacher," she added.

"One was especially indignant, and said that she couldn't bear the thought of being buried by someone in skirts."

But now that Miss Hopewell has been ordained and a church put wholly in her charge, she hopes to make some radical changes.

"A church should be a cheerful place," she said.

"I see no reason why women should come to church in hats and starched Sunday-best, when they would feel more comfortable in something a little less orthodox."

Cinema And Church

"And, if we could afford it, I should insist on soft, plush, tip-up seats. Cinemas have them, so why shouldn't the Church?"

"Sermons should be entertaining. If a preacher can illustrate a thought with a humorous story, not only does it put the congregation in a good mood, but it holds their attention."

SPORT—AND
BIG FEETWomen Can Blame
Tennis: Hockey

London, Aug. 28.—British women's feet are getting bigger.

Mr. John Mason, dean of the National School of Chiropody, which maintains the largest foot hospital in the world, said this week:

"Our women's feet have never been particularly small, but a great many girls have larger feet than their mothers because they play hockey and tennis and do a great deal of walking and hiking."

Mr. Mason does not agree that women should wear low heels. "A medium heel gives the necessary arch support."

GALAPAGOS QUEEN

Empress
Of Eden Is Found AgainDISCOVERED ON LONELY ISLE
IN PACIFIC

The alluring blonde Baroness Bosquet von Wagner Wherborn, the missing "Empress of the Galapagos Islands," has been found in a new Eden.

She has been discovered hiding in a lonely island off the coast of Ecuador.

With her is a man believed to be Robert Philipson, who accompanied the Baroness on her dramatic flight from the Galapagos Islands after sailors had stumbled across the bodies of two men, the manner of whose death has aroused suspicion.

Astounding Story

In the meantime the Baroness is being held on her latest Eden pending advice from the Ecuador police.

She is said to have given astonishing details of her bizarre reign to representatives who questioned her.

Recently a dramatic account of the amazing adventures of the Baroness on her island domain were published.

The Baroness, it is learned, was confronted on her second Eden by statements made by Captain Borthen, skipper of a fishing vessel whose crew found the two men's bodies.

"Things happened there on Charles Island, under the rule of the Baroness," Borthen said at the time, "that were too horrible to imagine. I am not telling any secret when I say that life there in that small colony was a hell of horror."

Charges Pooh-poohed

The Baroness pooh-poohed Captain Borthen's insinuations, and said she would tell the true story of her life on the island later.

She landed on Charles Island in the Galapagos group in 1932 with two lovers, Robert Philipson and Alfred Lorenz.

One of the reasons for choosing such a secluded abode were the unconventional loves of the trio, but they were also searching for pirate gold.

The Baroness and her three lovers wore scanty clothing and jealously guarded their territory from intrusion.

Trouble developed in the colony when Lorenz and Philipson began to quarrel over which one should enjoy the Baroness's affections.

She showed plainly that she preferred the manlier attentions of Philipson, and some bloody battles took place between the two men.

Captain Borthen says the Baroness forced the men to whip each other for her entertainment.

Some months ago a Dane named Nugeraud landed on Charles Island. What happened afterwards is a mystery.

The bodies of Lorenz and Nugeraud were found on the beach of a neighbouring island, mummified by the sun.

GRETNNA GREEN
ROMANCESGovernment Plans
To End Them

London, Aug. 30.—THE romantic illusions which surround the Gretna Green marriage are being dispelled at last.

Sir Godfrey Collins, Secretary of State for Scotland, is now considering plans, which will put an end to them.

For years romantically-minded couples have gone to Gretna, just over the Scottish border, to pledge their troth beside the blacksmith's anvil.

Sir Godfrey Collins is to hold an early meeting with the heads of the Scottish churches to see what can be done about it.

He has received during the last few weeks several complaints about the unsatisfactory state of the present law. These have come from church elders, ministers, and prominent citizens and couples who have "married" at Gretna Green.

A Scottish M.P. is urging Sir Godfrey Collins to make radical changes in the law which governs the issuing of these marriage licences.

At the same time he wants an enactment passed to ensure that such marriages as have already taken place at Gretna are legally binding.

At present many of the couples are not quite sure whether they are officially married or not.

The Scottish church leaders who have been investigating the matter have come to the conclusion that Gretna marriages are very different now from what they used to be.

In the old days there was usually a touch of romance about them.

To-day, in many cases—as the subsequent actions in the courts show—the man has no intention of marrying and the girl only realises that when it is too late.

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEMARKET UPWARD
YESTERDAY

New York, Sept. 11. The following reports on the New York Stock Market have been received through Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz:

The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market—Stocks today were upward and the most active session since July 27, 1934 was witnessed. Trading in Radio Corporation issues consisted of blocks of 1,000 to 25,000 shares. Motor issues were the most active group, with dozens of shares reaching new high levels for 1935. Railroad securities were in heavy demand, driving the average to the highest mark since December, 1934. Late profit-taking, however, pared advances. Bonds were firm, whilst stocks on the Curb Exchange were higher.

Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz New York office cables:

Stocks: There was a renewed advance today on fresh buying. The Republic Steel Corporation is offering $24,000,000 of convertible general mortgage bonds, 4½ per cent., 1950 at par.

Cotton: Rains are delaying the movement of the crop, which is expected to increase with coincident hedge selling later. Farmers are expected to market freely as nothing exceeding the 2 cent bonus is available.

Wheat: The market was discouraged by long liquidation. The fundamental strength of the market remains unchanged.

Corn: The near position is tight, whilst distant months are dependent upon the progress of the crop.

Rubber: The market was steady, but idle.

WE FLEW RIGHT UP

going to bother you with being too long.

Mrs. Post asks me to take good care of Wiley. I said, "Of course, you mean in the air. After we get on the ground he is able to look after himself."

There was an extra single seat ahead of the double seat. Wiley took it out, and there is left a world of space, as there is this comfortable double seat. It could be possible to be a six-passenger job.

Wiley has got a rubber boat and a canoe paddle, some life vests, or protectors.

Oh, yes, and his gun case. I don't know what kind it is. I don't hunt or shoot. It's a long-looking thing. I expect there is a Springfield rifle in there.

Oh, yes, and his fishing rod and eighty reels.

Oh, yes! And two or three coils of rope (and they are not mine). They are to tie the ship up and pull it up to the banks.

That will be my job to get out first and tie the rope and then vault ashore and haul it in.

What, no camera? No, that's what we are going on this trip for—to get away from cameras.

Then, too, I don't know nothing about 'em, and can't work 'em.

We may see some fine sights, but you can always lie about things better than you can prove it.

Then you always have to explain that "this picture don't near do the scene justice."

Oh, yes, and some sleeping bags. Wiley got them. Said they was great to sleep in.

I never was in one of 'em. You zip 'em up around you after you get in 'em some way. I always have trouble with those zippers.

WATER LEVELS

FOR WEST, NORTH AND EAST RIVERS

The River Conservancy Commission for Kwangtung Province issues the following report on water levels, in English feet, for the West, North and East Rivers:

Place of Observation	W. L. on record	W. L. on record	Sept. 10	Sept. 11
West River at Shihching	441.0	0	13.7	14.4
North River at Tungyuen	426.0	0	8.0	8.5
East River at Shamsul	415.0	-5	7.5	8.2
North River at Shiklung	415.5	-2.7	3.0	3.7

So I can see myself walking around in one of those things all day.

Let of dogs here at the field. Dogs and autograph hunters always find out where anything is going on.

There ain't any unemployed in this country. That's what the so-called idle are doing, getting autographs, and, say, they are working twenty-four hours a day.

Fellow comes up and says, "I see all your pictures," and I ask him which ones, and he can't name one. Woman brings little five-year-old girl up and says, "Tillie wants to meet you. She reads all your little articles in the papers and enjoys 'em."

Tillie says, "Who is he, ma?" Girl newspaper photographer, very efficient and pleasant, in fact, all of 'em are. They seem to know we don't know where we are going ourselves, and they don't insist on us telling 'em.

Well, they bout got gas in: Wiley is getting nervous. I want to get this off and leave it before having to send it back from Alaska.

I am anxious to get going, too. I think we are going to have a great trip, see lots of country that not too many have seen.

But you can't tell. You could go to the northernmost part of Hudson Bay and expect there would be a pack of folks there in Fords having a picnic, or maybe some holding company stockholders sending telegrams to Roosevelt.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 12, 1935.

BUDGET DAY

The Colony's Budget, being introduced in the Legislative Council to-day, is not expected to be in any way spectacular. Prevailing conditions are such that the Government has of necessity to proceed cautiously in arranging its finances. Details of the proposed expenditure, published yesterday, show that it is planned to cut down outgoings in 1936 by a sum of two million dollars, compared with the current year. None the less, the total is still high, especially when it is borne in mind that the 1934 figure represented a record for the Colony. But despite the wielding of the economy axe, a sum of over three million dollars is being set aside for Public Works Extraordinary, this representing an increase of over two lakhs on the original estimate for this year. It is not to be inferred, however, that this implies embarkation on new projects of any considerable magnitude; the explanation will most likely be found in the intention of the Government to push on with certain big undertakings already in hand. It is, at any rate, reassuring to feel that, despite present difficulties and future uncertainties, the Colony is able to concentrate on the completion of these important schemes. At the time of writing, the estimates of revenue are not to hand, but it is expected that they will be materially below those of the current year, and that a considerable deficit on the coming year's working will have to be budgeted for. It is believed that the Government will base the dollar rate, for the purposes of the Budget, at a figure considerably lower than the present rate of exchange, although above that of the 1s. 4d. rate for the current year. Exchange is always an uncertain factor, and it is thus impossible to say with any exactitude how the estimates may eventually work out. It is to be presumed, however, that the Government has made a close study of the general position and has framed its Budget on rather conservative lines, in the belief that existing conditions dictate the desirability of conserving available funds as far as possible. No new taxation is considered likely, nor, for that matter, is there any prospect of existing burdens being lightened. The most that

NOTES OF THE DAY

THE UGLIEST WORD

War, since there was a land called England, has cost the nation dear in blood. By the sword those gallant gentlemen of other days won an empire, and held it, in their sovereign's name. War, in the days of sailing ships and knee-breeches—and the muzzle-loading musket, was bad enough, costly enough, tragic enough; but to-day it is carnage, chaos, anti-Christ. Yet we must be prepared for it. We must be prepared to face that horror which, even within the compass of short memories, almost destroyed the world. It is incredible; but it is true. This is not mere newspaper sensationalism; this is the opinion of able men, broad-visioned, men the world over. Mr. George Dorn, the United States Minister for War, says that it is inevitable, but he believes that America can avoid it. There are some who will say that newspapermen seize on such expressions of opinion as this, put them into big type and distort them in order to sell papers. There are some who have gone so far as to suggest that newspapers breed war. They don't, unless they are the instruments of a propagandist. War news may sell them a few more papers; but they suffer from the after effects of wars like everybody else, and the profit is soon consumed by losses. No sane man or business enterprise wants war; but, equally certain is it that no sane man will shut his eyes to its possibility and its menace, but will prepare to meet the emergency if it arises.

AN OLD STORY

How many times have we heard that "Recovery is just around the corner," or that "Prosperity is due to-morrow"? Regularly, from here and there, a hundred times a year, since the world's securities toppled, trade went into a decline, and progress slipped a cog. Mr. Rudolph Hecht (no relation to Ben Hecht of novel and satire fame, but the president of the American Banking Association and something of a satirist in American politics) believes that the country is "ready for recovery," whatever that may mean. Most of the people in lands which have suffered from the depression have been ready, and waiting, for recovery for some little time. Hongkong for one. We could do very well with a couple of quarts of that rare vintage of 1921-22, when officials could brag about "peak years" in our commerce and the dollar was worth five or six shillings. Yes, we think we too are ready for recovery.

ENGLAND LEADS

England, we believe, leads in this struggle for economic health. Statistics indicate that industry has forged ahead latterly, that there are fewer unemployed by a good many thousands than there were last year at the same time, that savings are higher, that there is more money in circulation than ever before and that Government revenue is well in advance of what it was in 1934. Britain, too, appears to be in this state of "readiness" for recovery; or perhaps has gone a step farther. The only people who conceivably are not ready for better times are those in opposition to the Government. For a good Government and good times make a hard combination to undermine. If the National Government doesn't make a few mistakes and get into the red with its budget, it will leave its opponents little to complain about. Those in power no doubt will tell us that recovery has arrived, and it is only those on the other side of the fence who still persist in declaring that it is still around the corner.

the Colony can do at the moment is to carry-on in a quiet way, in the hope that before another Budget Day comes round the general situation may have shown some improvement, with the prospect of definitely better times ahead.

WE FLEW RIGHT UP AND OVER

By WILL ROGERS

(Reprinted from the Sunday Express)

This is one of the most poignant articles the Sunday Express has ever published. It was written by Will Rogers and posted just a few moments before he and Wiley Post took off from Seattle on the flight that ended in their death in the frozen north.

Rogers chose as the subject of his article his favourite topic—the safety of air travel. The spelling and grammatical essentials are part of the style which helped to make him the most popular man in America.

I am what you might call a mighty poor stroller. The feet are bad and the legs are worse, so I take mine out in riding. So this is "Thoughts While Flying." Away here a week or so back I went out to the flying field at midnight at Los Angeles to catch a plane for Seattle. You see, a day or night means nothing to 'em now. With the courses all lighted, they run schedules in the night time the same as in the day.

Bill—that's my first-born—and his mother were with me, and I was off on a little slightseeing trip with Wiley Post.

When my wife knew it was with Wiley, it didn't matter where it was we was going; and she was mighty fine about it.

Well, she is about everything. You can't live with a comedian long without being mighty forgiving.

On the same field, a couple of years or more ago, she had seen me off to Vancouver to catch a boat to go to the Japanese-Manchurian war, and then fly on around the world and meet her in Geneva at one of those disarmament conferences where we used to always go for my amusement.

Then around South America, on a 21,000 miles jaunt at one time. And, by the way, she is no mean aviation enthusiast herself. She will make all the short trips with you.

In fact, she was flying the next back to New York and Maine to see our Mary.

But this has nothing to do with "air strolling," as I haven't started strolling yet.

Pretty night, nice stars, I dropped off in "Frisco to tend some business" early the next morning, and caught a plane out there at eleven the next morning, and then to Seattle at five in the afternoon.

That's a pretty trip. Pilots in big Boeing just scraped Mount St. Helens. Snow all over the old hill. We flew right up and over what I think they call Redwood Highway.

Lots of pretty little towns nestled back in the little valleys and canyons. The first stop out of Sacramento was Medford, Oregon, where a few days before some ambitious reporter had sent out a despatch that he had seen Wiley Post and me flying over there, when we were at that time crossing Arizona.

So this time he is liable to report that I have arrived there by horse and buggy.

Say, there is some mountains over that route. South of Medford, north of Medford, that's the town where they raise fine pears.

I was forced down there on my previous flight to Vancouver and they kept telling me about the fine pears, and I afterwards wrote about them, but said they never did offer me any; they just kept telling me how great they was.

Well, sir, when I returned from around the world they sent me practically all they raised—in the valley that year, I think. Every time a box would come it would be more pears and better pears (if possible).

We looked down and saw a big forest fire in the mountains. Pilots said it had been burning for days.

It's beautiful country in Northern California, and Oregon and Washington—everything green, rivers galore. Into Portland, Oregon, a beautifully located city. I asked for Tex Rankin, the flier that had hauled me over that country in the early days. He was a fine flier, and is yet, which means that he's good.

"You are a fine flier," means a lot more than saying, "You was a fine flier." A girl stewardess came along somewhere in the story here with a fine lunch. It had more dainty little sandwiches and knick-knacks than I had ever seen at any lunch in my life. It was arranged lovely. They say it was made up at the St. Francis Hotel, in San Francisco.

Then into Puget Sound country, beautiful bays and islands. Tacoma, who had the first slogan that I can ever remember. It was when I played there in vaudeville about 1908—"Watch Tacoma grow." I have never watched it much since, but it did.

Seattle? That's a hole story in itself—the gateway to Alaska—to the Orient, to Canada.

I have to tell you about seeing the big bombing plane they are just finishing for the army. It's the biggest in the world.

Yes, sir, a plane is a great place to see anything, only the wings are right under where you want to look and you can't see anything.

Did I really see Mount Shasta? They couldn't hide it under the wings. Well, all I know is just what little I see behind this old Lockheed's wings. Its Sirius wings, Lockheed body, three-bladed pitch propeller, big engine.

Wiley calls it "Arora Borealis." I call it "Post Toasty."

It's a beautiful morning in Seattle, Wash. Wiley and Mrs. Post have been here a few days getting the ship from wheels to pontoons. I've had a mighty pleasant and lovely twenty-four hours here. Everybody terrible nice and accommodating, fine hotel, lots and lots of tourists coming in and out.

Some that have been to Alaska, some that are going, some that have been to Yellowstone, some that are going.

Seattle is a great travel corner. Mrs. Post and Wiley and I drive out to the field. It's a combination land and water airport, called Great Lakes Washington. That's the lake that turns out those champion rowing college teams.

Mrs. Post decided the last minute to go up to Alaska a few days later by boat, so it's only Wiley and I that are taking off.

The ship looks mighty pretty. It's bright red with a few trimmings of white stripes. The pontoons are awful big-looking things, but Wiley says, "None too big."

Wiley is kinder of Calvin Coolidge on answers: None of 'em are

Jottings From The Scrap-Book Of Master Edward

Edited By Eddie

WE are an outcast.

Yet in all respects we are an honourable man.

We do not belt our wife or pick our teeth with a bread knife.

We are not a poet, nor do we possess a dog that goes out into the street without a muzzle.

We always smile at ladies when we pass them, and take off our hat when we travel in lifts with them.

We have never committed murder. Nor have we ever used the wrong fork.

In all these things we are beyond reproach.

Yet we are treated like a shroff. We are not, incidentally, a shroff. Nor are we a bailiff, hawker, insurance-collector, landlord. Yet we are an outcast.

Our family has practically disowned us. Our boss curtly refused us our usual mid-month advance. The boy at the Gloucester hands us our Tiger as though he would prefer it to be a real one. We have to tiffin, and even drink, alone.

We are an outcast.

We don't believe there's going to be an Italo-Ethiopian war.

Latest Scot Joke
A Scotsman on holiday at Dover found a French penny and decided to swim the Channel in order to spend it.

The news of his endeavour, preceded him by wireless (says a London contemporary), and, as he approached Calais, hundreds flocked to the harbour waving small Union Jacks in honour of his tenacity. He turned round and swam back. At Dover they asked him if he had landed and spent his penny.

"No," he explained, "as soon as I got there I could see there was a flag-day on."

ETHIOPIA UNMOVED BY THREAT

BUT RESENTFUL OF ITALY'S CHARGES

DEMAND FOR ENQUIRY

(Special to "Telegraph")

Addis Ababa, Sept. 11. Emperor Selassie has issued a communique stating that reports that Italy plans to attack his frontiers on September 24 "leave the Government unmoved."

Reports that Ethiopians are planning to attack the Italians across the Eritrean and Somali borders are entirely without foundation, his communique adds. United Press.

DEMANDS INVESTIGATION

Geneva, Sept. 11.

The Ethiopian spokesman at the Assembly, M. Hawariat, has demanded that the League investigate the Italian charges that his is a barbarous country.

"By means of modern photography, it is easy to forge convincing documents designed to show evidence of barbarism," said M. Hawariat.

Ethiopia would welcome international aid in developing her resources and was ready to accept any reasonable suggestions made in good faith.

"Although we are called barbarians we have given proof of our restraint and humanity in the present crisis," he went on.

"We have been reproached with the allegation that we tolerate slavery," he said, and added that the conditions in some factories in so-called civilized countries was a near equivalent to a state of slavery. United Press.

MEMORIAL TO NAZIISM

HITLER'S MIGHTY CONGRESS HALL

(Special to "Telegraph")

Nuremberg, Sept. 11. In the presence of 20,000 uniformed Nazis, Herr Hitler this afternoon laid the foundation-stone of the new Nazi Congress Hall, which will take eight years to build and will hold 60,000 people.

In a brief speech, Hitler described the hall as "the first giant amongst buildings of the Third Reich." He added that the pick of the Nazi nation would assemble there annually through many centuries.

A salute by field guns ended the ceremony. Reuter Special.

PASSENGER JUMPS OVERBOARD

SAVED AND BROUGHT TO HONGKONG

Jumping off a steamer bound for Canton yesterday morning in an attempt to commit suicide, Lee Yuk, 39 years, was found swimming in the sea by the master of a junk, and brought back to Hongkong. He is none the worse for his experience.

The would-be suicide was brought to the Water Police Station yesterday by Lam Sik-chung, master of junk No. 2426H, who had seen him swimming near San Chau, and rescued him. At the station, the man admitted that he had jumped off the morning boat to Canton in an attempt to end his life. He was later taken, on his arrival in Hongkong, to the S. C. A.

FRAUD CHARGE

OFFENCE DATES BACK SIX YEARS

Ip Kim-wan, 43-year-old unemployed man appeared before Mr. Macfadyen this morning, charged with intent to defraud by forging a promissory note purporting to be made and given by Chiu Sit-shi, alias Sit Shi, on March 9, 1929. An additional charge was also preferred against defendant of uttering a forged promissory note on October 4, 1934 purporting to be given or made by Chiu Sit-shi.

Sub-inspector O'Donovan appeared for the prosecution and said the Crown Solicitor would take the case. He had been instructed to ask for a week's formal remand. He also added that the case might be a criminal one. Defendant was accordingly remanded for one week.

ALLISON BEATS FRED PERRY ENGLISHMAN HURT IN FALL

DOCTORS ADVISE REST BUT GAME GOES ON

New York, Sept. 11.

Wilmer L. Allison, America's top ranking tennis player, who was sensationally defeated by Vivian McGrath in the recent Wimbledon championships, has re-established himself as one of the world's leading players by eliminating Fred Perry in straight sets in the semi-final round of the United States championship at Forest Hills.

Perry's defeat, however, was due largely, if not entirely, to a fall which he sustained during the first set. He was beaten 7-5, 6-3, 6-3.

Perry, who won the title for the last two years, was out to create a record by becoming the first foreigner to secure the American crown three years in succession.

Notwithstanding the strong international flavour which was given the tournament by the entry of several leading players of the tennis world, Perry had a comparatively easy passage into the semi-final round and it was confidently expected that he would retain the title again.

KIDNEY INJURED

It was in the seventh game of the first set that Perry suffered a bad fall and injured his right kidney. After a medical examination the doctors said that the Englishman should rest for at least a month.

Allison went into a 3-0 lead in the first set but Perry drew level and was again led by 6-4, but the Englishman once again caught up on his opponent before losing at 7-5.

In the second set it was obvious that the fall was handicapping the Wimbledon champion who lost the first five games before winning the next three with some lovely tennis. Allison won the first two games of the third set on Perry's errors and after the Englishman had drawn up to 3-4, Allison qualified for the final by taking the set at 6-3.

After the match Perry sporting-ly remarked that he had no grouse to make. He had a licking coming for sometime.

Allison said that the only way he could beat Perry was to concentrate on the Englishman's backhand and this he did.

Allison will now meet Sidney Wood in the final, the latter having eliminated Bryan Grant, conqueror of Donald Budge, by 6-2, 6-4, 12-10, 6-2 (Cable mutilated).

The women's final went to Miss Helen Jacobs, who beat Sarah Paulfrey-Fabian by 6-2, 6-4. Reuter.

JACKIE COOGAN ENGAGED

Hollywood, Sept. 11.

The film star, Jackie Coogan, has announced his engagement to Miss Toby Wing, well-known cinema actress. Reuter Special.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

HE THAT IS GOOD IS FREE, THOUGH HE BE A SLAVE; AND HE THAT IS EVIL IS A SLAVE, THOUGH HE BE A KING.—Augustine.

A woman, Lam Shing, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen this morning, charged with the possession of 414 poppy lottery tickets at the Yuenai Wharf. She pleaded guilty and was fined $200, or one month's hard labour.

Ching Tin, a young blacksmith engaged at the Kowloon Docks, was sentenced to one month's hard labour for the theft of file chisels and a file, the property of his employers, when he pleaded guilty before Mr. Thomson at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning.

Local estate amounting to $17,800 was left by Yue Yik-hang, alias Yue Che-chung (or chong), and otherwise called Y. Gee-chong, merchant, late of 24 Yuk Sau Street, Wanchai, who died at the above address on August 23, 1934. Letters of administration to the estate have been granted to Yue Kwan-shi, widow.

Mr. Thomson, at the Kowloon Police Court this morning passed sentence of one month's hard labour on a woman hawker, named Un Chak, who admitted assaulting her brother-in-law, Wong Pui, in Shek Lung Street last night. Inspector R. Shannon stated that defendant asked the complainant to look after her stall for a while. He refused and used abusive language. She picked up a knife and slashed him on the arm. His Worship remarked he would not have people losing their tempers and using knives.

OUR AUSTRALIAN VISITORS

HAPPY DAY SPENT IN CANTON

Australia's 34 young feminine Ambassadors returned to Hongkong last night after a day in Canton. Their main impression of Shamen is that they "met crowds and crowds of people."

The whole of yesterday was spent in sight-seeing in the Kwangtung capital and its surroundings, the occasion being actually the first on the whole of their tour in which they have had a real opportunity to go sight-seeing.

This will be rectified to-day as far as Hongkong is concerned, for during the whole day the girls are guests of individual members of the Australian and New Zealand Association, which has arranged comprehensive tours of the Colony.

The young ladies gathered at the Association headquarters in the Gloucester Building at 11 a.m. from where, following a short instructive address by the Rev. H. R. Wells, they departed on their tour of the Colony.

Following tiffin, being held in homes of individual members of the Association, sight-seeing will be resumed this afternoon until 5 p.m. when the charming visitors will be guests of the Women's International Club at tea.

The Australian and New Zealand Association takes charges again to-night when the girls will be entertained at Chinese dinner at the Kam Ling Restaurant, 490 Queen's Road West. Admission to this function, dress for which is informal, will be by tickets.

To-morrow will be spent in further sight-seeing, arranged by the League of Nations Union, and the girls will depart for Shanghai and Japan by the Dollar liner President Grant, leaving at midnight. Their return to Hongkong in December.

NAVAL SECRETS REVEALED

Sub-Lt. Jackson, of H. M. S. Duchess, has reported to the police the theft of a pair of binoculars, valued at £6, from the vessel.

Chan Lam, unemployed, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen this morning, charged with the theft of a roll of cloth valued at $5 at No. 176 Queen's Road Central from Cheung Tak-mat, Sub-Inspector Tyler said defendant was arrested when he was seen by a district watchman going through Peel Street. He was searched and the cloth found on him. Defendant admitted the charge and was sentenced to six weeks' hard labour.

The possession of 2,024 poppy lottery tickets and keeping a common gaming house for poppy at 101 Portland Street, second floor, formed the subject of charges brought against Lau Shun-on, aged 71, when he appeared before Mr. Thomson at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning. Det-Sgt. Franklin prosecuted, while Mr. C. Y. Kwan was for the defence. Hearing was fixed for to-morrow at 2.30 p.m., bail of $750 being allowed.

London, Sept. 11. Leading English football teams, holding the advantage of home ground, gave brilliant exhibitions to-day when some convincing victories were secured.

The Lancashire side had the Wolves at Moss Side while the Yorkshire eleven were entertaining West Bromwich Albion at Roker Park Ground.

Birmingham won for the first time this season, beating Leeds at St. Andrew's Football Ground by two goals to nil.

BRADBURY ENTERS FINAL

GOOD MATCH SEEN AT VALLEY

(By "Sagar").

For the first time during the many years that he has been playing Lawn Bowls, B. W. Bradbury, the Craigengower C.C. player, has qualified for the final of the Open Singles Championship. Yesterday he eliminated H. A. Alves, of the Club de Recreo, by 22 shots to 12 on the Civil Service C. C. Green and if he can maintain the form he has been showing during the present season, there is every prospect that he will carry off the title.

Bradbury has been in his best form this season and it is the general opinion that he is bowling better than ever before. There have been occasions when he has not been able to maintain a high standard of bowling but he has rarely allowed his game to deteriorate recently during the current tournament.

It was necessary yesterday that he reproduce his best form and although the standard fell somewhat during the middle of the game both players were forced to go all out and it was only through his greater experience that the pendulum swung in favour of Bradbury, and gave him the decision in one of the best games in the tournament.

BRADBURY'S EXPERIENCE

Alves, like the majority of the Club de Recreo players, is dealing with his drawing but he lacks experience and although he was able to match shot for shot with his opponent yesterday he was not able to gauge the situation to the same degree of perfection as Bradbury who always saw the best shot to play and played it whereas Alves on some occasions was not able to find the best shot to play. Notwithstanding a commanding lead against him during the early stages of the game Alves was never demoralised and kept within reach of his opponent until he was deprived of a count of two on the 22nd head, after which he was a beaten man.

The score was then 16-12 in favour of Bradbury but had Alves been given the count and made it 16-14 he might have beaten his opponent.

However, it was a perfect shot which gave Bradbury the count and one that was played for without there being the semblance of a fluke attached thereto.

DESERVING VICTORY

Bradbury was fully deserving of his victory particularly as he held a commanding lead after the first nine heads when he had registered ten points against his opponent's two. Both gave a brilliant exhibition on the first two heads with each player scoring one point.

The standard was not so high for the subsequently couple of heads but it was always fairly high and whenever a player scored it was necessary that the wood be in very close proximity to the jack, as both were capable of drawing to within inches of the "kitty".

Alves had a bad break on the sixth head when he conceded an unnecessary three to his opponent. Bradbury was lying on one when the Club de Recreo player, in an attempt to dislodge the shot, played heavily on the wood but missed his objective and bumped in two more counters.

However, he recovered somewhat from his deficit of 10-2 and at the 15th head—was only 10-13 down. After Bradbury had drawn the shot on the 22nd head when Alves was lying two the loser fell away and, on the next head, gave away a three, being short with three words and

TRIPLE CROWN TO AGA KHAN

COULD HAVE WON WITH 12 STONES

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, September 12, 1935, a.m.)

Doncaster, Sept. 11. A huge crowd cheered the victory of the Aga Khan's Bahram in the St. Leger, while book-makers groaned, the winner being the hottest favourite for many years, starting at 11 to 4 on.

The Aga Khan was in Geneva and was therefore unable to witness his third St. Leger win.

Bahram is the first horse since 1903 to win the triple crown, and by winning to-day he retained his unbroken certificate.

The Aga Khan's son, Aly Khan, who led the winner in, said it was most unlikely that Bahram, whose time for the race, 3 min. 14/5 sec., was only one second outside the record, would ever run again.

Smirke, the winning jockey, who was lucky to get a last-minute chance to mount Bahram, owing to an injury to Freddy Fox, originally chosen as the jockey, stated, when interviewed by Reuter, that he could have won with twelve stones.

Meanwhile, Fox, who had ridden Bahram to victory in previous classics, heard the result over the wireless in hospital.—Reuter Special.

(By FRANK THOROGOOD)

Southend, Aug. 16. If a maker of films had called here soon after lunch I imagine he would have been in his element.

With its peaceful lake, on the edge of which women of all ages sit knitting and ever knitting, there was nothing in the general aspect of Southend which related to the cricket pitch. The South Africans were losing their first four wickets for 20 runs. Essex continued to hold an advantage and they now require 148 runs to win the match.

The action of the new drama after lunch was a day later, but the villain of the piece remained the same, and the second time Stephenson created a panic in the South African camp. In the progress of the collapse we had a singular coincidence. As in the first innings, Nichols began by dismissing Mitchell and then Stephenson, often finding his own bowler round about cover point, took the next three wickets.

A SHATTERED TIMBER YARD

The army officer, whose boundless energy and enthusiasm make him a sheer delight to watch, began his onslaught in his third over when he bowled Brown neck and heels.

A picture of the wicket in its awful destruction would have made a remarkable souvenir. The off stump was sent flying out of the ground; the middle stump knocked sideways after the manner of one of our heavy-weight boxers.

In the next over Stille was leg before; in the fifth Wade suffered the same fate and both went according to the new rule. Stephenson's three wickets had been taken at a cost of three runs in spite of a blistered heel, and in the whole match he has captured 10 wickets for 110.

TWO MORE COINCIDENCES

Then the history of the first innings repeated itself in a partnership of recovery. This time the saviours were Dalton and Nourse, who added 95 in a little over an hour.

There has been a strange eerie-like touch about this match. It will be remembered that the chief South African partnership of Wednesday was broken by O'Connor; yesterday it was again O'Connor who stepped in and severed the alliance with a clever c and b low down.

Dalton continued to play fine cricket and when eventually dismissed he had scored 182 for the match. The next best partnership of the innings came when Williams (who on drove Evans for six) and Langton added 71, but Nichols, with the new ball, finished off the innings by taking 3 wickets in 6 overs for 9 runs. Sheffield also distinguished himself by making three clever catches in the slips.

The secretary of Leicestershire County Cricket Club issued a statement recently announcing that C. S. Dempster, the former New Zealand Test player, had resigned his position as financial secretary to the club, but would be available to captain Leicestershire next year.

of Boreham, attracted a lot of attention. Against all odds of bowling this lad who is only in his second year of first-class cricket, drove with rare power and 36 of his 43 runs were boundary hits. Four times in one over he hit Langton to the boundary.

Other Essex batsmen worthy of note included Wykes, Peter Smith (who hit Crisp three times to the boundary in one over) and Stephenson.

The Army man, beautifully taken high up with the right hand at short square leg off a hard hit, could scarcely believe the catch had been made and for one brief moment he stood rooted to the earth, gazing at Langton.

I learn that in recognition of his fine bowling against the South Africans the Essex County Club are to present Stephenson with a ball suitably inscribed and mounted.

HOME SOCCER PROSPECTS

NO. 15—BRENTFORD

CLUB MAKES A DISCOVERY

(By CHARLES DUCHAN)

Brentford have now entered the upper class of football. Before they have kicked a ball in the First Division they are discovering a difference. When they go in quest of a player the transfer fee is in thousands where previously it had been in hundreds.

An inside forward of experience is Brentford's objective but the obstacle is the transfer fee demanded for the player they want. Still, Brentford are not worrying—they are content to rely mainly upon the players who have carried them from the Southern Section to the First Division in two years.

These men will be given the opportunity to make good in their new company. New players engaged include Dunn, a centre-forward from Glasgow Celtic; Wilson, the Southend centre-half; Lynch, the Leytonstone right half-back; Lynch, a goalkeeper from Yeovil; and Sullivan, a 19-year-old Rochdale winger, son of the old Surrey wicket-keeper, but they must await their chances.

In a conversation I had with Mr. H. C. Curtis, the manager, he said: "We shall be satisfied if we can hold our own during the first season." I am sure that Brentford will do more than that and finish the campaign in the top half of the League table.

GROUND CHANGES

They are a strong side with sufficient skill and team-work to beat more teams than will beat them. With more pace on the wings, I think Brentford would provide the surprise team of the year, like Tottenham Hotspur did the season before last.

There is just one cause for concern. The backs are very delicate in style and may be worried by the fast pace of the opposing forwards, but Hatterman and Poyser are such clever players that I believe they will quickly adapt themselves to the increased speed.

Brentford open the season at Burnenden Park against Bolton Wanderers, their promotion companions. After the match they will attend a dinner given by the Wanderers.

Brentford have improved their Griffin Park home commensurate with their present company. Now the ground will comfortably house 15,000, with covered accommodation on three sides. Visitors will be astonished by the wonderful changes made during the summer months.

the places of players who have taken their departure have been well filled. All last season's goalkeepers have been retained, as have the more experienced of the backs, although there is room for another, who may yet be found.

Attention has been given to strengthening the half-back line and in the places of Davison who has gone to Rhyll as player-coach, Baker to Bristol City, and Wilson, good men have been secured in Hall from Sheffield

United, McGaughey (Blackburn Rovers) and Webb (Exeter City).

With Bourton and Bacon still available as leaders of the forward line there will be no lack of thrust in the attack, and the wing positions have been covered by the acquisition of McNestry (Bristol Rovers) and Fittin (Preston North End).

With twelve forwards at command the club should be able to provide a meritorious attacking line. A change of trainers has been made

CHAPTER XXIII

Mr. Hamilton went on without waiting for a reply. He did not seem to notice that he had called Janet by her first name. "I'm leaving the magazine," he said. "It's happened rather suddenly."

"Why, Mr. Hamilton?"
The man smiled. "Surprise you? Well, it's still something of a surprise to me, too. I'm going with Colman's group. It's well, frankly, quite a promotion. More money and I'll have a chance to try some things we couldn't do here. Chambers has been very decent about it—very considerate. I'm going to Philadelphia. Leaving in just a few days. There are some things I'll have to attend to first."

There was sad regret in Janet's voice. She said, "Oh, but I'm sorry, Mr. Hamilton! I mean—of course it's fine for you but will miss you so. The office won't be the same without you!"

"Hamilton's smile was almost boyish. "No? Well, that'll be a good thing, I guess. I've been a pretty hard taskmaster. Cross and irrit-able!"

"Oh, but you haven't! Why, you haven't at all!"
Hamilton nodded. "I have," he said. "But I really didn't mean to be. You've stayed here after your day's work was supposed to be through. You do more work than any secretary I've ever had and you know how to go ahead without asking questions. Maybe you didn't think I've noticed how much overtime you've been putting in the last few months but I have!"

"But I didn't mind," Janet assured him. "I know you didn't. That's just the point! You've let me impose upon you. Never complained! If you'd only reminded me that you were supposed to stop at five o'clock I'd have let you go then."

Janet was embarrassed. She said, "But I don't see what the magazine will do without you, Mr. Hamilton. Who's going to do your work? Who'll take charge of the advertising department?"

"Hasn't all been settled," Hamilton told her, frowning slightly. "I was coming to that. You see, this offer from Colman's came quite unexpected. I haven't talked to anyone about it except Chambers. He's arranging for me to get away immediately and for a time they'll carry on without naming a new advertising manager."

"Oh!" It didn't answer Janet's questions. She was looking at him all this was going to affect her. Affect her, it assuredly would. How would she get along with her new employer? A stranger, most likely. Hamilton had been demanding but he also had his good points. "There's something else," he said, and hesitated. "I don't like to say this, but when my job is ended here I'm afraid yours will be, too."

She didn't speak but her eyes widened and she made a quick little gesture with her hand.

"It's not that your work hasn't been appreciated," Hamilton went on quickly. "I assure you that it has. I've told Chambers you're unusually capable. He knows that anyhow. It's just that things haven't been going so well with the magazine. It's going to pull out all right. I'm sure of it. But for the next year there's no question but that expenses must be reduced. That's why no one is to be named to take my place. Dawson and Hartley will take over the duties. Share them somehow. I'm not sure myself. I plan will work but at least they'll make a start at it. If it falls they'll try something else. But whatever happens the office staff is to be reduced. They'll have to make other cuts too."

"You're trying to tell me," Janet said slowly, "that I won't have a job?"
Hamilton nodded. "To put it bluntly, yes."

Janet glanced down at the typewriter keys before her. She had used them for over two years. She had sat at this desk, spent the greater part of each day, sat down with its pinster walls covered with maps and charts, its carpetless floor, its filling cup and its cluttered bookcase. It had seemed to Janet that, though the rest of her world might rock, this part surrounded by these four office walls—was secure. She had never dreamed that this could happen. Discharged. That was the word for it!

Her eyes raised. Hamilton was watching her. He said kindly, "I've been thinking about you. I don't like to go away and leave you looking for work. Jobs are hard to find these days."

"I'll find something," Janet assured him. Her voice was flat. "You'll give me a recommendation, I suppose?"

"Gladly! But I think I can do a little better than that. I've been looking around, thinking, trying to find a position that would suit you. One where you could be as useful as you have been here and where the work would be congenial. I think I've found it."

She was listening eagerly but she didn't like to be interrupted when there was something he wanted to say. "It's not quite the same kind of work you've been doing," he went on, "but I think you could handle it splendidly. It's with my sister. She's a widow and since her daughter's marriage she's been living alone—except for servants, of course. I don't think it's good for her. She's not in any sense an invalid, either."

"What she needs is a social secretary who can help her with the duties every day. She takes part in social and philanthropic activities has to deal with, and at the same time be a sort of companion. It means work—lots of it! It's amazing the time these women spend on their clubs and their committee meetings. Maybe they're not very efficient but I don't know. I do know my sister needs someone to help her and I think you're well suited for the position."

"What would I have to do?" Janet asked.

"Well, I don't know that I can tell you exactly. You would take charge of her correspondence—and there's a lot of it. You would make appointments for her and see that she doesn't promise to be two places at the same time. There might be dealings with the servants for quite a little. It's quite possible that every day would be different. Do you think you'd like to try it?"

Janet hesitated. Then she said, "I would like to try it, Mr. Hamilton. I don't know if I could do it but I'd like to try."

"Oh, you can do it, all right! I haven't the slightest doubt about that. Remember the other day I asked if you liked cats? Well, my sister has a Persian she's very fond of. Had it for several years. Buster's the cat's name and Buster will be around all the time. That's why I wanted to know if you objected to cats."

Janet laughed. "If the cat doesn't object to me," she said, "I'm sure we'll get along all right. There's one other thing," Hamilton added as an afterthought. "My sister will want you to live in her home. You'll find it very pleasant there, I'm sure. You'll have your own quarters, of course, and a certain time each day to yourself. It won't be like coming to an office, though, and leaving it."

Give up her room at Mrs. Snyder's? The little kitchen and the table that was just big enough for two and the comfortable old armchair? Could she give up that room with its happy memories? Yes, but there were memories that weren't so happy! There were memories that made her eyes darken and seem to contract quickly.

"I won't mind that," Janet said. "Where does your sister live and when can I see her?"

Hamilton gave her the address and she wrote it down. His sister's name was Mrs. Curtis and she lived in a fashionable section on the west side. He told Janet how to get there. Then over the telephone he made an appointment for her to call on Mrs. Curtis the next afternoon.

"I think you're going to like it out there," he assured the girl, evidently well pleased with himself. "Yes, I think you'll like it. And now will you call Humphries and tell him I'll get that report over to him this morning?"
Janet put the call through. She and Hamilton were both soon completely occupied by details of the day's tasks. Janet went through all the familiar duties but with what a difference! The fact that she was to be here such a little while longer changed everything. It changed Janet herself.

"But of course I don't really know yet," she reminded herself. "I won't know until I've talked to Mrs. Curtis." At 2:30 the next afternoon Janet went up the walk to the brick house with the gabled windows and rang the bell.

(To Be Continued).

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Right out of the pages of classic history on the screen comes "Great Expectations," the greatest, most absorbing and most human story Charles Dickens ever wrote. It comes to the King's Theatre very soon. The classic is produced in grand style and with one of the greatest casts. The story of "Great Expectations" will never grow old. It is just as fascinating and thrilling to-day as it was almost 100 years ago! Magwitch, the convict; "Pip," the young man of great expectations; Estella, Jaggers, the eccentric Miss Havisham, all step out of the pages of the past into vivid, living personalities. A truly distinguished cast, headed by Henry Hull, America's premier interpretive actor, Phillips Holmes, Jane Wyatt, Florence Reed, Alan Hale, George Breakston, Francis L. Sullivan, and many others, interpret these famous characters. The film is an authentic, sympathetic translation of the sweeping novel by the English master, directed by Stuart Walker, who has been a Dickens scholar all his life, and was for many years the leading exponent of the repertory theatre in America.

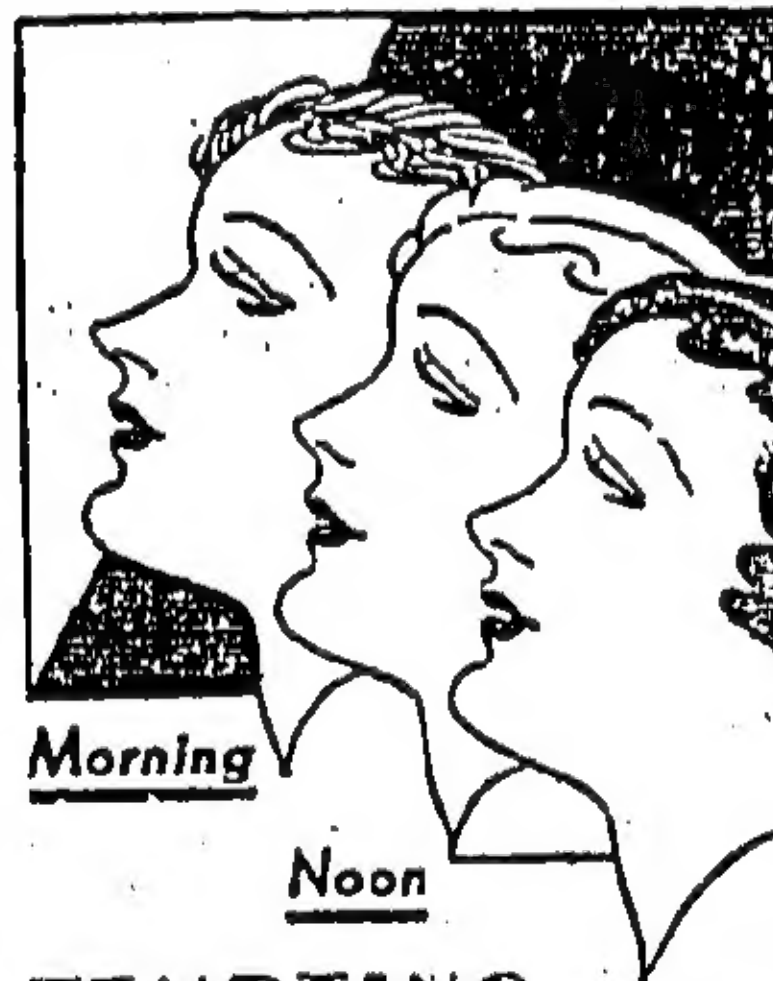

"It's a Gift"

It seems that with each successive screen appearance W. C. Fields, Paramount's genius of comedy, becomes funnier and funnier. Because although we thought he had reached unrepeatable heights of comedy in his previous starring films, "Foolish Wifery," "No" and "The Old-fashioned Way," he seems to have exceeded his own possibilities in "It's a Gift," next change at the Queen's Theatre. It is the funniest thing Fields has ever done, and that, to those of you who know Fields, is saying plenty! Ably supported by a cast which includes the inimitable Baby Le-Roy, now a talking actor, Kathleen Howard, Jean Rouverol and Julian Madison, Fields go through a series of routines, old and new, none of which he has brought to the screen before, and every one of which leaves the audience gasping for breath.

"The Bride of Frankenstein" The motion pictures' strangest drama on the screen is at the King's Theatre to-day, this being the hair-raising Universal story, "The Bride of Frankenstein." It is strong fare, but a thrilling, action-filled picture which fires the imagination as few films have done, and without question sets a new high mark in the realm of the so-called "horror picture." The present picture is a sequel to the original "Frankenstein" of three years ago, telling of the creating by a half-mad scientist of a "monster" in human form, built up from parts of dead bodies. This grotesque creature embarked on a wild career of murderous destruction, with his crimes mainly prompted by bewilderment and fear. In "The Bride of Frankenstein" he learns to talk, and becomes part of a vast excitement when a woman is similarly created at the height of a wild storm. Then follows a crashing climax which will leave any audience well-nigh breathless. As before, Karloff is starred as "the Monster," and gives a truly remarkable characterization of the menacing, lumbering brute, savage and yet filled with misunderstood kindness. Karloff's supporting cast includes many such talented players as Colin Clive, Valerie Hobson, O. P. Heggie, Ernest Thesiger, Elsa Lanchester, Una O'Connor, Dwight Frye and E. E. Clive. "The Bride of Frankenstein" is the first of the independent production of Carl Laemmle, Jr., and the picture has been produced on a lavish scale, with an exceptional array of highly artistic settings filled with sombre beauty.

"Calm Yourself"

For sheer entertainment on the three-way road to hilarity, adventure and romance, "Calm Yourself" is the story complications it weaves more goods laughs than any picture seen in weeks. With Robert Young and Madge Evans heading a grand cast, this new production from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios closes at the Queen's Theatre to-day. Made in the best farcical manner, it possesses rare speed and so its drama packs all the more punch while its merriment is as swift as a fun-loving heart could desire. The cast is admirably chosen. Miss Evans is bewitching and young meets all the demand of a big role. Betty Furness has her best part to date and is more than acceptable. Shirley Ross is fine as the banker's bride. Other splendid performers are Hardie Albright, Ralph Morgan, who is stellar as the banker; Nat Pendleton, Claude Gillingwater, Raymond Hatton and Herman Bing.

KWONG SAI'S MISHAP

BULKHEAD SAVES VESSEL FROM FILLING

Further details of the unfortunate mishap suffered by the Kwong Sai, a Canton river steamer, were revealed yesterday afternoon, when a detailed examination of the ship disclosed that the damage is greater than was at first thought.

The Kwong Sai was on passage from Canton to Hongkong when she struck White Rock, off Ma Chan, at 3 o'clock in the early morning of Tuesday, during a blinding rainstorm which rendered visibility almost nil. The fore-peak was stove in, nearly sixteen feet, and the hole caused by the rock measured ten feet by fifteen feet. Fortunately, the sea was calm, otherwise disaster would have overtaken the vessel.

"The ship was actually kept afloat by the very strong fore-peak bulkhead, together with the engine room pumps," stated Mr. George White, Chief Engineer of the vessel. "If the bulkhead had carried away, the ship would have filled with water."

Captain J. Acock, master of the Kwong Sai, contradicted the report that there had been a panic among the 900 passengers aboard the ship when she struck the rock. There was not the least sign of panic, and they behaved themselves wonderfully well, donning the life-belts as instructed.

The passengers, after being assured by the officers that everything was all right and that there was no danger to the vessel, sat on deck from the time the ship struck the rock till 10.30 o'clock, when the Kwong Sai arrived in port. They did not question the officers as to the amount of danger the ship was in, and obeyed every order given them.

The Casualties

The only casualties were one Chinese passenger killed and several others injured. The Chief Officer, Mr. T. Jones, received a nasty knock on the head when he was thrown to the deck as the ship listed when she struck.

The officers expressed the greatest pleasure at meeting the police launch in Chinese waters while steaming slowly into port after the vessel drew off White Rock. There were, as a matter of fact, two police launches, and their personnel gave the greatest possible assistance to those on the crippled ship, not only by wirelessly to Hongkong about the mishap but standing by the vessel until her arrival in port.

The Kwong Sai immediately went to Bailey's wharvey on her arrival here. It is reported that repairs to the vessel will take from eight to ten days, before she can resume her run on the West River.

She is owned by the Shui On Steamship Company and not by the Yuen On Company as previously stated. Her officers are Captain J. Acock (Master), Mr. T. Jones (Chief Officer) and Mr. G. White (Chief Engineer).

COLONY'S BUDGET PROPOSALS

a short-fall of over two million dollars.

This was more than offset by the savings of some four millions on expenditure, the revised estimate being $28,481,000 against the original estimate of $32,666,102, but a considerable part of this saving was caused by the estimates being framed on a 1s. 4d. dollar, whereas exchange had been in the neighbourhood of two shillings for the greater part of the year.

It was expected that it would have been necessary to draw on surplus balances to the extent of $1,970,452 during the current year, but the figure had been revised to $162,906, which would leave a surplus balance at the end of this year of $12,095,789.

THE COMING YEAR

Referring to the coming year, Mr. Smith said it was anticipated that on the basis of existing taxation the revenue could hardly fall to be a million and a half dollars behind the 1935 revised figures.

Mr. Smith further stated that the dollar rate for the coming year would be taken at 1s. 8d., and, after allowing for surplus balances, there would be a deficit of about $830,000. He remarked that if the dollar remains at its present level of about two shillings, there would be sufficient savings to turn the budgeted deficit into a substantial surplus.

After stating that the Secretary of State had given authority to transfer to the general revenue in case of need a sum of $600,000 from the funds of the 1925 Trade Loan, Mr. Smith referred to steps which were contemplated if there should either be a serious drop in the dollar rate or a serious decline in revenue, or possibly both. No additional taxation was being imposed in the existing circumstances, but he gave a warning that this might be necessary if the state of finances should show serious deterioration.

SALARY LEVY?

Mr. Smith also uttered a warning that a temporary levy on all Government salaries, both dollar and sterling, might be necessary before the end of 1935, and the Secretary of State had already given his sanction to action on these lines.

After referring in detail to the Budget proposals, Mr. Smith concluded by saying:—"Times are hard in Hongkong as in other parts of the world; and if our constant attempts at economies and our constant search for more revenue may appear disheartening, I would suggest that the remedy is not only that courage which has brought the Colony to its present state through periodical times of depression, but also that long view of the Colony's future which can visualise an era far beyond the twelve months of 1935."

HOARE'S SPEECH ACCLAIMED

If the League breaks down, then the bridge between Britain and the Continent will also."

The Daily Mail says the speech has heightened the growing fear that Britain may be dragged into another European conflagration.

The Daily Mirror observes:—"He (Sir Samuel) could not say what the man-in-the-street is thinking, namely that Britain will not go to war in any circumstances over the Italo-Abyssinian crisis."

The Yorkshire Post remarks that the British people must be prepared to provide British diplomacy with substantial backing in the shape of armed strength.

The Manchester Guardian asserts that few will be dissatisfied with Sir Samuel's speech, which was both reasoned and reasonable.

OTHER OPINIONS

The Glasgow Herald argues that if peace-loving peoples do not combine to meet aggression, they will increase the chance of themselves being the next victims.

The Scotsman says the speech has cleared the air and given other countries a lead: those countries must now decide whether to follow or not.

The Dundee Courier says the people of Britain regard a European war as too high a price to pay for a doctrinaire vindication of the principles of the League Covenant.

The Belfast News Letter declares that the League must justify itself or go out of business.

The Irish Independent observes that the decision rests with France. If she refuses to take sides, she will be blamed for what ever happens.—Reuter.

JOCKEYING FOR POWER

CHAOTIC CONDITION IN LOUISIANA

PARTIES SPLIT IN FACTIONS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Baton Rouge, Sept. 11. The Legislature has completed the passage of thirty-nine laws which the late Senator Huey Long drafted, strengthening his dictatorship in Louisiana, just prior to his assassination. The House then adjourned.

The body of the leader of the most powerful political faction Louisiana has ever known is lying in the state capitol building, and the funeral will be held Thursday at 4 p.m. Burial will be in the capitol grounds.

Meanwhile, both Long's and his opponents' groups are struggling to possess the dictatorship machinery, including patronage rights, even the street cleaners.

AMATEUR PHOTO COMPETITION

Judge to Give Talk On Entries

In connection with the exhibition of pictures entered in the Telegraph Amateur Photographic Competition, one of the three Judges, Surgeon Lieut.-Comdr. W. E. Loftus Brigham, R.N., has kindly consented to give a talk on the entries at the Gloucester Hotel on Tuesday next, September 17, at 5.30 p.m. All interested are cordially invited to attend.

The full list of prize-winners will be announced in Saturday's Telegraph, and the Exhibition will be held at the Gloucester Hotel, top floor for four days, commencing on Monday, September 16, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission will be free.

jobs. They want complete control of election machinery and private spending of state funds without auditing or accounting.

However, various henchmen possessing various powers, formerly all responsible to Senator Long, are now jockeying to seize others' powers and the Long faction is thus considerably weakened.

The opposition is likewise split into several camps and lacks central leadership.

Despite official mourning, any sign of grief is conspicuously absent among the populace.—United Press.

regarded here as the turning point in the history of the League, and while taking a strong line he has avoided antagonising Signor Mussolini by direct references to the Ethiopian crisis.

Apart from Sir Samuel Hoare's references to the demands for changes backed by national passions and his remarks in connection with the rights of backward countries to retain their independence, which are regarded as somewhat "in the nature of a challenge to Italy, and which are important, French opinion seems to be that the chief interest in the speech lies in the proposal for world-wide investigation to rectify the maldistribution of natural resources.

M. Pierre Laval's reply to Britain is expected to elucidate publicly for the first time how far France is prepared to support Great Britain in upholding the League Covenant.—Reuter.

BANISHEE'S FALSE PRETENCES

WORKS SWINDLE ON HAWKERS

Lau Fook, unemployed, was sentenced by Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, to a total of four months hard labour on four charges of obtaining goods by false pretences from hawkers in the Wanchai District, and received another six months' hard labour for having returned from banishment. Defendant was alleged to have obtained goods from the hawkers without paying for them, and to have disposed of the goods in West Point or the Central District. He was seen by Tsai Chai, public has usually shown sound instinct upon big issues and usually in a crisis has expressed itself with firmness and justified common sense.

"The League from the outset has lacked the membership of certain powerful nations and has since lost the membership of others. This lack of universality inevitably introduces elements of uncertainty. We are uncertain how far we can rely upon world-wide support in the work of organising and maintaining peace.

"There are too many empty chairs at our table. We want no more."—Reuter.

NO AID TO SETTLEMENT

Rome, Sept. 11. The speech of Sir Samuel Hoare, the British Foreign Minister, before the League Assembly, will not facilitate task of the peacemakers, according to an authoritative view.

Italians feel that Sir Samuel ignored the problem of Italy's surplus population.

It is asked whether Britain is prepared to redistribute mandates as well as raw materials.

In any event it is not expected that Signor Mussolini will be deflected from his course.—Reuter.

LAVAL TO REPLY

Paris, Sept. 11. It is expected that M. Pierre Laval, the French Prime Minister, will reply to Sir Samuel Hoare's statement of British policy on Friday.—Reuter.

WARNING TO FRANCE

Geneva, Sept. 11. Sir Samuel Hoare's definition of the British attitude towards the League Covenant is regarded as an unmistakable warning to France and the League and is interpreted here as meaning: "Get on or we get out."

It is understood that Sir Samuel's speech was shown to M. Laval before it was delivered and M. Laval's decision to postpone his reply until Friday is taken to indicate his desire to consult the French Ministers before committing himself to a definite course.

Possibly M. Laval hopes that the reaction to the British Minister's speech may bring Italy to a more reasonable frame of mind, but experienced observers regard this as very problematical.

Sir Samuel Hoare, Mr. Anthony Eden and M. Laval, discussed at length the Italo-Ethiopian problem this evening and also reviewed the whole European situation, like the Anglo-French agreement of February 3.

The Committee of Five of the League Council continued its examination of the Italian memorandum on Ethiopia's alleged "unfitness for League membership." It is believed the Committee's report will be based largely on the Paris proposals, without any appreciable alteration in the offer to Italy.—Reuter.

ASSEMBLY ADJOURNS

Geneva, Sept. 11. The Assembly adjourned at 7.15 p.m. until 10 a.m. to-morrow, after further speeches.

Mr. Stanley Bruce, Australia's representative, declined to jeopardise the issue by critical remarks, but asked whether any action should not be regarded as vital to the League's interests, safeguarded by instruments like the Covenant, Kellogg-Pact, Locarno and Stresa agreements.

"If the crisis confronting the League cannot be resolved," he asked, "can any of these things endure?"

The Hungarian delegate, General Tanczyk, appealed strongly for equal armaments rights for Hungary.

Dr. Halvdan Koht, Foreign Minister of Norway, recalled that his country had opposed Ethiopia's entry to the League owing to its backward social conditions, but urged the prevention of conflict on a basis of justice to both sides.—Reuter.

NOT REPLYING

Rome, Sept. 11. Political circles state that Baron Aloisi will not reply to Sir Samuel Hoare or M. Pierre Laval, as it is considered here that the Ethiopian affair is finished as far as Geneva is concerned.

It is denied that there is any question of Italy leaving the League as yet.—Reuter.

one of the victims, and arrested. On the way to the Wanchai Police Station, two other victims, Tong Yee and So Cheung, recognised him, and also went to the station, and later the fourth complainant, Wong Wai, was traced. Detective Sergeant Fitches said the defendant had defrauded several hawkers in Wanchai.
